GOP Worried Over Failure To Cut Taxes

Concern Reflected In Ike's Decision To Hold "Fireside Chat"

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's decision to report to the nation by radio next Tuesday emphasized today deep Republican concern about public reaction to continued deficit spending and possible tax cut relays.

In what the late Franklin D. Roosevelt called a fireside chat, Eisenhower will take to the air waves to tell why his GOP administration can't balance the federal budget now.

There were some reports—not verified at the White House — he might call for an extension of present high taxes despite Con-

Price Decline Big Worry To Farmers

Should Help Selves Before Going to Govt. County Men Believe

By CHARLES L. MARTIN

Marion County farmers are seriously worried about the decline in farm prices but believe they should do all they can for themselves before going to the government for help.

These were the opinions which polled the largest votes at a "farm price rally" held at New Bloomington School Wednesday night and attended by some 100 farmers from throughout the county.

Sponsored by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, similar simultaneous meetings were held in each of Ohio's 88 counties.

The New Bloomington rally began at 8:15 p.m. with Kensel Clutter of the Marion County Farm Bureau speaking briefly on "Why Are We Here." He said purpose of the rally was to get the opinion of local farmers on what should be done about falling farm prices, based on information given in radio addresses from Cincinnati and a panel discussion at the school.

From 8:30 to 9 p.m. the group listened to the state-wide broadcast in which John W. Sims, executive secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation said farmers should have 100 per cent of parity to remove the threat of a "very serious agricultural problem."

YOUNG PROSECUTOR. James Wilson Reed, 25-year-old prosecuting attorney of Clay County, Va., will handle the state's case when 48 men are tried for the murder of an Elk River coal and lumber company employee. Reed was elected prosecutor about five months after he was graduated from West Virginia University's law school.

Korea Truce Negotiations Hit New Low

Breaking Point Near After Neither Reds Nor Allies Yield

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Korean truce negotiations got nowhere today as both sides refused to budge from their separate proposals for exchanging war prisoners.

Apparently, only hope kept the talks alive. The Allies have threatened to break off negotiations again if the Reds won't bargain on the last major barrier to a truce.

U. S. officials want to probe every corner of the Communist position for any possible basis for agreement.

Today's hour and 20-minute session brought only restatements that neither side accepts the other's views on what to do with 48,500 Red prisoners who refuse to go back to communism.

Another meeting is scheduled for 11 a. m. tomorrow (9 p. m. Friday, EST).

Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr. chief Allied delegate, said the Communists either "misunderstood or deliberately misinterpreted' the latest Allied plan, offered two days ago and snubbed sharply by the Reds Thursday.

He said they were not negotiating inside the conference hut.

They didn't show any particular interest in our proposal except to PRESIDENT AND McCARTHY ANSWER ATTLEE. Transatlantic controversy between the United States and Britain over the handling of the Korean truce talks and relations with Red China drew a blast from Senator Joseph McCarthy (R) Wisconsin (below), who demanded that the British apologize for what he called a "cheap attack" by Laborite leader Clement Attlee on President Eisenhower. The President, himself (above, took issue with Attlee that some people in the U.S. "do not want a truce in Korea." Ike also said there will be no meeting of East-West leaders until the Russians prove they are sincere in wanting peace. White House press secretary James Hagerty is walking beside the President.

Marion Grand Jurors Indict 9, Including Edington; Plan Meeting Wednesday

Crawford

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS — The Crawford County Grand Jury Thursday night requested gambling in the county "be permanently stopped" by the sheriff, the police chiefs, and the mayors of the county.

This order came in a report of its findings after conducting an investigation of alleged widespread gambling in the county. No indictments for gambling were returned.

Statement of the jury in regard to their gambling probe is as follows:

"This grand jury of Crawford County, O., having it called to their attention of the illicit gambling within this jurisdiction requests the sheriff, the various police chiefs and mayors that the gambling be permanently stopped."

Three mayors of three Crawford County communities testified before the jury Thursday about gambling activities within their jurisdiction, and each left the grand jury room displaying different reactions.

Mayor Frank P. Sitler of Bucyrus announced he was ordering an immediate crackdown on gambling in his town by ordering the removal of all gambling devises in Bucyrus.

Marion

More time to investigate reported gambling activity in Marion County was requested by the grand jury this morning when it submitted its report to Common Pleas Judge Paul D. Smith.

In other action, the jury returned indictments against nine individuals and failed to indict five persons.

Among those indicted was Howard Edington, 23, of 358 Milburn Ave., on charges of assault with intent to commit rape, and breaking and entering. He was found stabbed in the chest, arm and back early Easter Sunday. He was arrested at the Marion City Hospital two days later on warrants signed by Robert Lovell, husband of a 17-year-old girl Edington allegedly attempted to rape.

Mrs. Lovell charged Edington broke into her residence, using a large knife to pry open a window in her bedroom. He then attempted to attack her and when he laid the knife down on the bed she picked it up and stabbed him three times and he fled, she said.

With respect to their gambling probe, the jurors issued the following statement:

"This grand jury also, in consideration of the reported gambling situation in Marion County, has had six witnesses before it to testify concerning said situation, including

Rain Keeps Crowd Small At Parade

Marion's Armed Forces Day parade moved as scheduled Thursday night, but rain kept the crowd small.

Marching in a salute to the nation's Army, Navy, and Air Force service units were bands veterans groups and their auxiliaries, National Guardsmen, representatives of the armed forces, Scouts, and ROTC units. The parade also featured displays of armed services equipment, a portable searchlight, motorcycles and fire trucks.

Led by Col. John Phelan, Engineer Depot commander, who acted as grand marshal, the parade moved west on Center St. from its formation point at Harcourt Pl. to Park Blvd., where it turned south to Church St. It then moved east on Church to the disbanding point at Orchard.

The grand marshal and his staff dropped out at the Courthouse to watch from a reviewing stand.

Police Capt. Clyde Hardin, chairman of the parade committee, estimated the crowd at between 2,500 and 3,000. Although the crowd was small, parade officials were pleased that that many had braved the rain to watch the show.

An open houes at the Engineer Depot Saturday and Sunday afternoons will also be in observance of Armed Forces Day.

Defines Parity

He defined parity in this way:

"If it took two bushels of wheat to buy a pair of overalls in 1930 to 1940 then two bushels of wheat ought to buy a pair of overalls today."

Noting that parity is the lowest it has been in 12 years, he went on:

"Twenty-eight per cent of Ohio farmers' income is from dairying and the price farmers receive for milk has taken the greatest drop since 1910."

"Prices for beef cattle are down 40 per cent...this year and Ohio farmers continue to face severe losses."

"The Ohio Farm Bureau believes that immediate action must be taken to better farm income."

Sims said the bureau would recommend 100 per cent of parity to the Ohio Congressional delegation on May 20, when 40 Ohio farmers meet with Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson in Washington.

Prior to Sims' talk, Everett Rittenour, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau, and D. R. Stanfield, vice president and organization director of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation also spoke briefly.

Rittenour said that farmers know if they are to be prosperous, business and labor must also be in a healthy condition. He continued with, "These groups too must realize that unless farmers have a fair income they will suffer."

Stanfield said, "We have the resources and are prepared to wage an aggressive campaign to see that the Ohio farmer has the kind of a farm program that will do the most for him." He said also that the farm price situation has created a price squeeze on the farmer.

Panel Members Introduced

After the completion of the broadcast—heard over a loudspeaker in the school auditorium—James Smoot, manager of the Producers' Livestock Co-operative Association, and moderator, introduced each of the four members of the panel. They each spoke five minutes expressing their views on what should be done about falling prices.

Marion Clark, secretary-treasurer of the Production Credit Association, said that removal of government controls on prices and wages has not helped farm income. Some of the problems of the farmer are the decline of foreign demand for farm products, increased cost of farm supplies, and an increasing farm mortgage debt.

He said the increasing debt delinquencies presents a serious problem.

Forest Loudenslager, a farmer, said he believes we are in a vicious circle. Demands by industrial workers for higher wages, means higher costs of products bought by the farmer, who in turn must raise his prices to meet the costs, he said. This means that

Heavy Red Losses

SEOUL (AP)—Turkish infantrymen backed up by thunderous tank and artillery fire early today chopped up a 2,000-man Chinese force which hit three Allied outposts in the biggest assault since the Korean truce talks resumed April 26.

The Turkish commander estimated that 400 Reds were killed or wounded. An officer said the attackers "left quite a few casualties in no-man's land," still uncounted.

An Army spokesman said many Turks were unhappy because the Communists didn't get close enough for them to use their favorite weapon—the bayonet.

The Chinese struck Outposts Vegas, Berlin and East Berlin on the Western end of the battle line, only a few miles from the Panmunjom truce talks village. Until two weeks ago the sector was held by the U. S. 1st Marine Division. But the Reds found Turkish troops as the Marines. The Turks are attached to the U. S. 25th Division which took over the sector when the Leathernecks were pulled out for a rest.

U. S. Sabre jets bagged two MIGs and damaged three others in the third straight day of aerial battles over North Korea. The deadly Sabres have shot down seven MIGs, probably destroyed one and damaged five in three days of hunting.

The Air Force also reported 140 fighter-bombers smashed a Communist military training center near Chinnampo, north of the Western Front.

Bitter fighting continued for the fourth straight day in the Capitol Hill-Outpost Texas sector of the Central Front, about 100 miles east of the Outpost Vegas area.

Chinese attackers overran six South Korean positions, including

Possible Collapse of Talks Delayed

U.S. Officials to Explore Red Truce Position Fully

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials have decided to probe the present Communist position in Korea as fully as possible to try to determine whether there is any basis to hope for an eventual truce.

The alternative, in the light of the Red rejection of an Allied plan for breaking the deadlock over final disposition of prisoners of war, was to accept collapse of the talks at once. Instead, the negotiators met today for an hour and 20 minutes without evident progress.

Officials recognize that the decision to explore the Red attitude in a few more sessions may do no more than put off a breakdown. They cling to some hope, however, that evidence may yet be found that the Reds really want a truce and are willing to pay a price for it.

Considerable importance is attached to whatever they find out ultimately about the Communist attitude because what happens on Korean armistice is a clear key to the whole Communist approach to a settlement of East-West differences.

On this broader prospect, there is relatively little optimism among authorities here, although as President Eisenhower stated yesterday the declared purpose and hope of the government is for an easing of condemn it," Harrison said. "Of course we condemned theirs too."

The Reds proposed May 7 that a five-nation neutral commission—India, Sweden, Switzerland, Poland and Czechoslovakia—take custody for four months of all prisoners who wont go home. During this time, the Reds would make "explanations." The future of those still refusing would be left to a post-armistice political conference.

The Allies suggested that India head the five-nation commission and supply all troops to control the prisoners. They also proposed that 34,000 North Koreans who wont go back, be freed when an armistice is signed. The remaining 14,500 Chinese would be put in custody of the commission for two months. Any then still refusing repatriation would be freed.

In New Delhi, Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru endorsed the Red proposal, saying it "seemed to afford a promising, solid basis for a solution of the immediate problems."

Godfrey's Condition "Good" After Surgery

BOSTON (AP) — Radio—TV star Arthur Godfrey underwent the first of two operations today at Massachusetts General Hospital and officials said he was in "good condition."

Details were not disclosed by the hospital in its two brief bulletins about the popular entertainer who is submitting to surgery to correct hip injuries suffered 22 years ago in a traffic accident.

The first announcement merely said Godfrey "is in the operating room now, to be operated on this morning."

About an hour later the hospital announced over the name of Dr. Dean A. Clark "the operation is over and Godfrey is in good condition following the operation.

British Press Defends Attlee's Blast at U.S.

LONDON (AP) — The transatlantic shouting match between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and former British Prime Minister Clement Attlee sparked a rash of fresh headlines and anti-American comment today in the British press.

Two pro-Labor newspapers printed front-page editorials upholding Attlees right to say there are "elements" in America which oppose a Korean settlement. Other newspapers with varying political viewpoints plainly indicated their sympathies lay with the Labor party's leader.

President Eisenhower's conciliatory remarks at his weekly press conference were all but lost in the shuffle.. The President said he did not think the rift between Britain and the U. S. over dealings with Russia and Korean policy is as wide as it might appear.

Although this drew little attention in London, Moscow's two principal newspapers—Pravda and Izvestia—carried identical 186-word summaries of the Eisenhower statements in today's editions. Neither paper offered any comment, however.

The publication of the summaries emphasized again the extremely close attention Moscow is giving developments in Britain and the United States since the start of the current Soviet peace drive.

Russian papers devoted nearly a page yesterday to the foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons earlier this week—the biggest play a British parliamentary discussion has won in the Soviet press in years.

Up to last night Soviet newspapers had carried nothing about the transatlantic war of words subsequent to Attlee's sharp comments on McCarthy and features of the U. S. Constitution, but Moscow dispatches made it plain that Russian citizens were being given the impression that Stalin's prediction about serious trouble between the U. S. and Britain was coming true.

As evidence of this, Moscow radio yesterday broadcast a lengthy review of the "ever-growing dissatisfaction with various aspects of United States policy" in the British Parliament.

In London today both the Inde-

AEC Denies Plan to Scrap Ohio Project

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission said today it is planning no "major curtailment" of its billion dollar atomic explosives production plant now being built near Portsmouth in Southern Ohio.

The commission also said in a statement that it "will not abandon the Pike County plant."

This statement was prompted by a story in the Washington Post that said the Pentagon has called on the National Security Council to consider abandoning or at least sharply cutting down the size of the Ohio plant.

An official of the security council declined to comment on the Post story. Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) said he had not heard of such a move as the story reported.

Awarded $50,000 In Libel Verdict Against Pearson

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal court jury today awarded Norman M. Littell $50,000 compensatory damages and $1 punitive damages in one of his two $300,000 libel suits against columnist-commentator Drew Pearson.

The jury failed to reach a verdict in the other suit, and U. S. District Judge Charles F. McLaughlin discharged it.

Littell, a lawyer, is a former assistant U. S. attorney general.

Pearson told reporters the case will be appealed. He said he had obtained additional evidence which was not available in the trial.

The suits alleged Pearson had libeled Littell in a column and in a broadcast which referred to his activities as an attorney.

in his city and reported his law enforcement officers have always been under orders to see to it that none existed in the community.

Prior to the grand jury report, Mayor Jay Nichols of Galion would not issue a clear-cut public promise to eliminate punchboards which he admitted were found in his city, the Bucyrus newspaper reported, adding that he stormed out of the grand jury room saying, "There are some on that grand jury that sure want to know a hell of a lot!" He declined to give any further statement ot newspapermen, other than that he "would cooperate," the newspaper reported.

What his position is now that the grand jury report has been made could not be determined immediately as he could not be reached for comment.

Mayor Sitler's removal order said "gambling and all forms of gambling devices are out in Bucyrus. If they are not removed, the owners or operators will be prosecuted."

Sheriff Bans Gambling

The Bucyrus mayor's order came close on the heels of a similar order issued Wednesday by Crawford County Sheriff Elwood Jacobs, who said his order covers "all forms of gambling, such as punchboards, fish bowls and pinball machines."

Before testifying before the grand jury, Mayor Nichols of Galion said, "In the four years I have been mayor, I have never had one complaint about gambling, and there has never been even one case in my court about it."

In reference to published gambling reports in a Mansfield newspaper, Mayor Nichols said, "We don't propose to be overrun by a couple of Boy Scout reporters from out of town," The Bucyrus newspaper reported.

Also appearing before the grand jury Thursday were the police chiefs of Bucyrus, Galion, and Crestline, and three newspapermen of Mansfield, whose newspaper published a series of articles this week reporting the existence of wide-spread gambling in Crawford County.

Sheriff Irked

After issuing the order calling for the removal of all gambling devices in Crawford County, Sheriff Jacobs was asked by a Mansfield reporter about his "crackdown" order. Their interchange was reported as follows by The Mansfield paper:

"The sheriff replied that he had given that information to the local Bucyrus paper.

" 'Well, how about a statement for out-of-town papers?' the reporter asked.

" 'Listen,' the sheriff came back fiercely, 'the News-Journal has no right to print gambling stories out of Crawford County.'

"Then, after realizing the impli-

a report from Glenn Obenour, Sheriff, and at the present time this grand jury has reached no conclusion and would like to have its investigation continued to summon further witnesses at a future time."

Wednesday, May 20, beginning at 9:15 a.m., was designated the time for this further consideration of gambling and for having further witnesses testify before the grand jury.

To Consider Augustus Case

Prosecuting Attorney Ralph E. Carhart brought to the jury's attention the case of Virgil Ray Augustus, charged Thursday with second degree murder in connection with the fatal stabbing of June Harris Wednesday afternoon, for their consideration.

The grand jury indicated it would consider the charge against Augustus Wednesday also.

Judge Smith, after hearing the grand jury's report, had this to say in regard to their gambling probe:

"In a democracy, the grand jury is the investigatory body, as I indicated to you in my original charge Monday. You as the grand jury have the right to receive information about any gambling which you may have heard about."

Speaking for the benefit of the people of Marion County who were not present when the jury submitted its report, the judge went on to say that "it takes evidence, it takes people who are wililng to testify, it takes people who are able to testify, before the grand jury, or the prosecuting attorney, or the sheriff can take action."

Calls for Testimony

Referring to those persons who may have knowledge of gambling activity in the county, Judge Smith said "Now is the time for them to speak up. The machine (the grand jury) is here for them to present their evidence."

Information presented before the grand jury is secret and cannot be revealed to anyone. Judge Smith gave his promise that "all evidence

Residents Want Lift Station to Connect Area With Govt.-Built Sewer

Hopes for Sewer in Northeast Hinge On Depot's Proposal to Sell Line to City

By CHARLES MARTIN

Proposed sale of a government owned sanitary sewer to Marion may determine the outcome of plans of residents in the northeast section of the city for a sewer system to serve their area.

Col. John Phelan, Marion Engineer Depot commanding officer, said a proposal has been made to the Department of the Army to dispose of a sewer which begins at the Depot, curves through the old Scioto Ordinance plant site and comes into the city by way of Jefferson St. The sewer was built by the federal government during the war to serve the federal installations.

This proposal was made to get the Depot out of the "sewer and water business," he explained. It was also proposed that water lines to the Depot be sold to the Marion Water Co., he pointed out.

At the present time, the Depot Marion Training School, and Monsanto Chemical Corp. all use the lines. The Depot pays the bills for all and collects from the state and Monsanto for the amount they use the lines. The Depot also maintains the lines.

The bookkeeping on these collections is a cause of grievance to Depot officials.

Col. Phelan said the bill for the treatment of the sewage is paid out of the Depot's operating funds while payments made by other installations as their share of the cost is paid into the Army general fund. Effect of this is to shortchange the Depot operating fund. Presently this amounts to some $200 and $300 a year, but under a new rate proposed by Mayor Harold F. Robinson will shoot up to some $6,000 a year, Col. Phelan said. The new rate asked for by Mayor Robinson is 16 cents for each 1,000 gallons of sewage treated. The Army has not yet agreed to a contract to pay this increased fee.

The outcome of the Depot's proposal to sell the sewer is important to residents in the northeast section of the city because they hope to use part of this sewer on Jefferson St. as an outlet for a planned sewer system in their area.

This system would be constructed so as to carry the sewage from the area to a "lift station" at E. Fairground and Jefferson Sts. This lift station—which would be connected to the government sewer—would raise the sewage from a 15-foot deep "wet well" and dump or force it into the existing sewer line.

Use of the lift station would be necessary because the new sewer system would drain from a high poing south of E. Fairground St. to the low point at Jefferson and E. Fairground St. At this low point the main tile of the new system would be some 10 to 15 feet lower than the existing sewer, the proponents of the plan explain.

From the Jefferson and E. Fairground St. connection the sewage would mix with sewage from other installations served by the line and would flow south to eventually dump into the E. Center St. trunkline sewer.

This plan was set up by a group of citizens in the area—who have been insistent in their demands for sewer facilities for several years—after they were told that cost of installation of a new trunkline sewer on Jefferson St. would be prohibitive.

City Engineer Tom S. Cathers told them at a City Council meeting several weeks ago that some $90,000 remaining from the 1945 sewer bond issue would not be sufficient to install a new Jefferson St. trunkline sewer.

When a suggestion was made at a mass meeting held at Mark St. School in January to look into the possibility of using the government sewer as a trunkline sanitary sewer it was decided to talk the matter over with Depot officials.

Later a request for specifications and plans of the government sewer was sent to the Army Retired Records Center at Kansas City, Mo., by Col. Phelan.

Must Study Capacity

These plans are needed to determine whether the existing sewer has the capacity for the additional load which would be placed on it by the proposed sewer, Cathers said.

Cathers said that the $90,000 would be sufficient to install a new trunkline sewer if the capacity of the existing sewer is sufficient to handle the load. If not, he said, additional funds would be needed.

Cathers said that he would not recommend that the city purchase the sewer unless it is found that the capacity is adequate. He said that he would recommend that the city lease the sewer with an option to buy if the capacity is found adequate on it, he said. They would also be needed in the event the proposed sale of the sewer to the city goes through.

Cathers said he believes the sewer—a 15-inch pipe which in considered large for Marion—could handle the additional load adequately.

Providing this is true, the Army has no objection to city use of the sewer, Col. Phelan said, but there must be a guarantee it will continue to provide uninterrupted service to the Depot.

Also, the other installation must continue to use the sewer and even if the line were sold to the city would continue to do so, he said. Only change would be that the city would maintain it and make collections from the various installations, including the Depot, for use of the sewer.

Regardless of whether the city eventually becomes the owner of the sewer, the citizens group says facilities for disposal of sewage from their area is needed and the lift station plan appears to be the most economical.

Estimates set the cost of the lift station at some $25,000 compared with the more than $90,-

Children of Railroad Employees Will Attend College

CLEVELAND — Paul W. Johnston, president of the Erie Railroad, awarded $1,000 four-year-college scholarships to five children of Erie employees during a luncheon here today. The awards were made to three boys and two girls in the presence of their parents who made the trip to Cleveland at the invitation of the railroad.

The winners are:

American Heritage Foundation Runs 'Freedom Crusade'

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Heritage Foundation has taken over the job of running the "crusade For Freedom," which raises money to finance the privately-backed "Radio Free Europe" and "Radio Free Asia."

The move yesterday brought an endorsement from President Eisenhower, a former trustee of the non-profit foundation created six years ago to "strengthen the sources of American freedom."

"I believe," Eisenhower said in a letter, "the work is of great importance and it seems to me that the American Heritage Foun-

Home Economists Visit Lunchrooms Of City Schools

Members and guests of the Marion Area Home Economists Association toured the city school lunchrooms when they held their last meeting of the season Wednesday night. Buildings visited were Edison Junior High School, the new Harding High School, and State Street Junior High School. Miss Helen Hutchins, city school lunchroom supervisor and president of the group, acted as guide and explained the cafeteria facilities. Dinner was served the group at the State Street School.

During the business session which followed, the officers elected were Miss Peg Potter, president; Mrs. H. A. Friend, secretary; and Mrs. Fred Artz, treasurer.

The group meets four times during the school year, and comprises five counties. Any graduate home economist is eligible to belong.

Love for Brother Costs Girl's Life

NEW YORK (AP)—A little girl's love for her brother cost her her life.

Betsy Reid, 13, was standing on a bank of the Harlem River yesterday, watching her nine-year-old brother, James, splash around on the edge. Suddenly the current dragged him out beyond his depth.

He couldn't swim. Betsy plunged in to save him. Neither of the two Negro children got back to shore. Their bodies were recovered by police.

BETHEL HOLDS SUPPER

A potluck supper honored the mothers of the girls when Marion Bethel No. 2, Job's Daughters, met Tuesday night in the Masonic Temple. About 50 members and guests were present. Waco Begins Giant Task Of Rebuilding

Tornado Damage In Texas City Set At $50,000,000

WACO, Tex., (AP) — This storm-ravaged city was to begin today the task of razing hundreds of buildings made unsafe for use by Monday's deadly tornado.

Meanwhile, 112 dead had been removed from the twisted, soaked debris and Civil Defense Administrator James Meredith estimated that 503 persons were injured.

Meridith said the twister that smashed downtown Waco made 300 families homeless, wiped out 196 business firms, damaged 376 buildings beyond the safety point, and damaged 1,285 homes.

Army engineers estimated the damage at $50,000,000, twice original estimates.

Meredith and Rep. W. R. (Bob) Poage urged Gov. Allan Shivers to ask disaster area status for Waco and to request authorization from President Eisenhower for aid under Public Law 875.

Such help would match the utmost the city could do to help itself. Shivers, by telegram, asked the President for $2,436,000 as a preliminary allocation.

The governor, in addition, asked for "such additional personnel, equipment and material as may be determined necessary following consultations between representatives of federal, state and local governments, and as you may approve.'

Central Search Headquarters, under Mayor Ralph Wolf, believed the 112th death victim found, George Conrad Roth, 64, would be the last. Two bodies, still unidentified, were included in the 112 dead.

Last night, for the first time in four days, search bosses relaxed and went to sleep. Workers who dug valiantly during miserable hours of rain and cold had cleared away enough debris that a few bare hulls of buildings were recognizable.

It means a large scar across the face of East Waco, the oldest part of this town of about 90,000 persons in the heart of Texas' Blackland cotton country.

For residents of the Brazos River city, there was another scar . . . across their hearts.

San Angelo, 200 miles west of Waco, continued to clear up its tornado wreckage. The storm there killed or fatally injured ten persons and caused an estimated $3,500,000 in damage. It struck a scant two hours before the Waco storm.

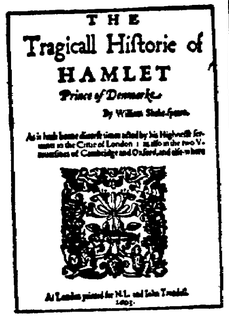
CROWN CAVALCADE — The PREDECESSORS of ELIZABETH II

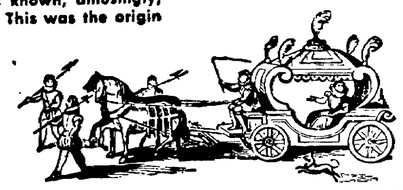
No. 23: Elizabeth I. Ruled England and Ireland 1558-1603.

Born: 1533, child of Henry VIII by Anne Boleyn (whom he had executed). She brought England to a high tide of prosperity, power and cultural influence. Hers was the time of Shakespeare, Bacon, Spenser, Jonson; of Hawkins, Drake and replacement of Spain as the No. 1 naval power; of Raleigh and beginning of English colonization in America. Elizabeth never married and this has caused much speculation. (One legend is that "she was a man.") She had close associations with many men. One English historian comments dryly, "She was known, amusingly, as the Virgin Queen." This was the origin of the name Virginia.

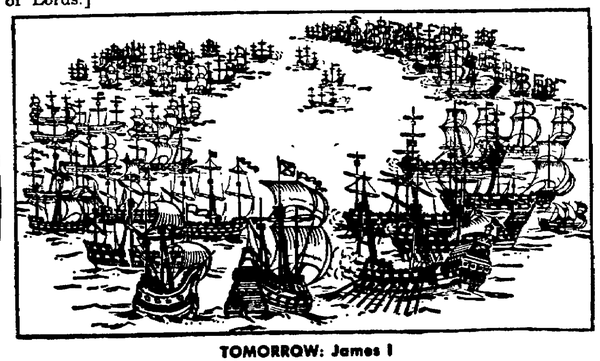


First edition of Hamlet [↑] was published the year of Elizabeth's death.

[↓] Her state carriage. At her coronation she complained that the Holy Oil used in the rite "was grease and smelled ill." Elizabeth is one of the queens usually depicted on playing cards, which became a popular recreation in her reign.



Meeting of the English fleet and Spanish Armada July 21, 1588 —the most consequential naval battle in history. [From a tapestry in the House of Lords.]



TOMORROW: James I

Radio and Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Happy Birthday

Kraft Theater celebrated its sixth anniversary last Wednesday with excerpts from some of the best shows it has done. It's a pleasure to report that the excerpts were the best things on the show. Not that there haven't been many more.

It's anniversary program opened a hell of a time in that department, too.

THIRD BIT was the final scene from "Wuthering Heights" with John Baragrey as the mad Heathcliffe. This is one of the finest little mixtures of madness and death and heartbreak and wild winds and woe in all literature, a very stringent test for actors, directors and cameramen.

The whole team, I thought, went through this blood bath of emotion about as well as you could find it anywhere including the legitimate theater. Baragrey is no Sir Laurence Olivier but he is a very capable and, when the need arises, inspired actor. It was a memorable scene.

Last on the agenda was a scene which probably has caused more talk than anything Kraft has ever done. This is the scene where Red Steiger, playing the part of a radar operator, talks down a crippled bomber to a safe landing on an airstrip entirely closed in by ground fog.

Written by a Marine airman, it is a masterpiece of underwriting and, in Steiger's hands, underplaying. Most of it consists simply of the terse, bewildering and — I suppose — accurate technical commands to the crippled plane, delivered in an expressionless monotone.

THERE PROBABLY HAS nver been a more suspenseful scene in television. I missed it the first time around and I'm happy I finally saw it. Steiger, incidentally, hasn't attracted too much attention before this role and hasn't attracted very much since. This is his one big role.

We've all heard too much about TV's large bombs of which you can see plenty any one week. It's high time something like this anniversary program came along to demonstrate that live television has accomplished some very notable things. Neither the movies nor the stage could do much better at any of thse scenes.

Happy sixth anniversary, Kraft, and many happy returns of the day.

PAST HORRORS are accepted without apparent bitterness as something nothing much can be done about. "I would like,' said one man, "to start a new life in a new home because I have no home and no people. My father is in Siberia. My wife, I don't know where she is. The Communists, they come and took her away."

To American ears it's shocking, this flat, expressionless apathy—but that's the 20th Century style.

A faintly macabre note was introduced by a professional smuggler of human beings who calls himself the Count and who briskly, almost cheerfully, gave advice on the supplies a well-equipped escapee needs—two days supply of food, wire clippers, drab clothes—and a short lecture on how to cut through barbed wire.

"It costs about a thousand dollars to be smuggled out by someone as expert as the Count," interposed Mr. Murrow dryly. "Human misery frequently has a price tag."

TO ME THE MOST interesting idea introduced in the hour-long documentary came from Paul Reynaud, former premier of France who was asked by Murrow why the Russians don't make it more difficult to escape from the Iron Curtain countries. "This is a policy on the part of the Soviets to abandon those they can't assimilate. It makes a more difficult situation for western Germany." This happens to be Chancellor Adenauer's theory, too.

At the end, a mild three-way debate occurred as to what the United States is and should be doing about it. In substance, Philip Perlman, chairman of the Commission on Immigration and Naturalization, said that the obstacles created by the McCarran Act were much too high; James O'Neil, past national commander of the American Legion, implied that they weren't high enough; George Warren, of the State Department, remained exquisitely noncommittal. It was all very polite.

"We seem to have missed a few lessons on how to treat our fellow human beings," said Murrow.

best of the 311 hour - long plays they have put on since the program opened in 1947. Altogether it was a wonderful show and more than justified Kraft's boast that "the growth and evolution of this program is the growth and evolution of television drama itself."

For some reason, Kraft has always been a seriously underrated program. When the prizes and the praises are handed out, they have generally gone to "Studio One" or to Robert Montgomery or to the late Celanese Theater. Kraft, the oldest continuous dramatic show on television and just about the oldest program of any sort, is generally ignored.

WELL, KRAFT HAS COME up with some fairly ramshackle vehicles — as who hasn't — but it has done some very fine things, too. After all, 311 plays is just about the equivalent of four full Broadway seasons and the wonder is not that there have been some clinkers with excerpts from some of the its anniversary program opened with a passionate and extremely literate bit from "Of Famous Memory" in which Nancy Marchand again played Queen Elizabeth with both fury and coherence, two things that don't always go hand in hand.

The second bit from "January Thaw," a comedy about a couple old folks moving back into their old home which is now occupied by a young couple, was probably the least satisfactory of the four. That is not meant as dispraise exactly, since the other three set a pretty stiff pace.

However, it is true that comedy is the one thing that not only Kraft but all dramatic programs do least well. Television does all right with the "I Love Lucy" sort of comedy; it can't yet cope with straight dramatic comedy — but, come to think of it, the movies always had

Feminine Touch

By Inez Robb

As a staunch believer in equal rights for men, I hate to see the boys being crowded in any one of the numerous business and industrial fields they long ago staked out "for men only."

INEZ ROBB

However, they might as well move over gracefully in both the oil industry and the insurance business.

Both fields are wide-open for women with git-up-and-go, with the only limit the extent of the girls' abilities.

MY AUTHORITY in the insurance business is Rosalie Armistead Higgins, who has been my neighbor ever since I came to New York and who sold me an insurance policy a few days after I arrived.

"Women are natural born insurance salesmen because so often the problem of insurance hits so close home to us," Rosalie said the other day as we celebrated the publication of the second edition of her book "Is Your Future Insured?"

Rosalie, who used to be a newspaper woman herself and formerly associate editor of the trade paper "Editor and Publisher," wrote the book more or less for her own amusement. And now, to her amazement, finds that it is selling in the Philippines, Turkey, Cuba, clear across the Arab world, in Europe and South America.

"They even use it as supplementary reading in the Harvard School of Business," Rosalie said, "and labor unions buy it by the hundreds."

THE BOOK is so popular, she believes, because her approach to the insurance business has been strictly feminine, "or practical."

"Women ought to try insurance selling for a profitable career," continued Rosalie, a former president of New York's Washington Square Business and Professional Women's Club.

My authority in the oil business is Ernestine Adams, with whom I attended the University of Missouri in the nebulous past. Ernestine, who has always been no bigger than a watch charm, has been named "Oil Woman of the Year" by the moguls of the oil industry and will be so crowned come Sunday at the International Petroleum Exposition in Tulsa.

ERNESTINE is managing editor of "The Petroleum Engineer," one of the bibles of the oil industry and, until her advent, a masculine stronghold.

"The sky is the limit for women in the oil industry," Ernestine said recently when we held a reunion in Dallas, where "The Petroleum Engineer" is published. "The men in this industry will give a great, big hand to any woman with ability who'll work. She can aim as high as she pleases, and get there, too.

"There are thousands of executive secretarial and office management positions for women in the oil industry," she continued. "But for women with specialized training, or who are willing to take extra schooling, there are wonderful jobs as geologists, engineers, draftsmen, geophysicists and petroleum chemists.

"I know a woman who runs a successful scouting service and another who is a research paleontologist. Look at Elsa Pierce who is assistant to the manager for the Venezuelan manufacturing department of Phillips Petroleum in Caracas, Venezuela.

BOTH THESE extremely successful women agree that you don't have to marry Howard Hughes to succeed in the oil business, although it would give a girl a head start, or make a fortune in insurance by conking out a husband insured for a million dollars.

It can be done just as readily with perseverance and perspiration.

Singer Finds GIs Resentful

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer Vic Damone was home from two years in the Army today, a little upset by the attitude of some other soldiers because he served in the Special Services branch.

The branch provides troop entertainment, among other things.

"I was only following orders," the 24-year-old crooner said when he arrived yesterday at La Guardia Field from Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., where he was discharged as a corporal.

He said he had encountered "much resentment" among other Army men because of his assignment, and added: "If I had gotten orders to go to Korea, I would have been there. It's not my fault if I got a break."

Capitol Lawns Need Cutting, Bender Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Bender (R-O.) says he's dsturbed because the lawns of the U. S. capitol and the neighboring Botanical Gardens look "just like a cow pasture."

Bender said in an interview he called Botanical Gardens officials and demanded they put some men to work mowing the lawn.

"I'm ashamed to show people from back home around the Capitol grounds." he said.

"If you don't do something about those lawns, I might get out there myself with a lawn mower."

That So and So Attlee

Since the British socialist Clement Attlee is a discredited figurehead of the weaker faction inside the minority Labor party, it's hard to see why his critical observations about the United States are causing so much pain among politicians and political columnists.

The poor fellow is entitled to his opinions. As a matter of fact, his principal opinion—that Sir Winston Churchill's proposal for a big-power parley should be held — coincided with an identical opinion of Pope Pius XII. No one accused the Pope of a plot to appease Communists.

Perhaps the trouble is that Attlee's opinions about the United States were too penetrating for comfort. For example, Attlee said it was hard in Britain sometimes to know whom to believe in the United States. He said the White House seems to say one thing, the State Department another; the Treasury another and a certain well-publicized U.S. senator still another.

Attlee said Americans can't agree on whether they want peace in Korea or want to keep on fighting. He said the separation of treaty-making power between the executive branch and the upper house of the legislative branch has the effect of tying the government's hands. He said, in substance, that the constitutional system of checks and balances has the effect of a constitutional system of interruptions and impediments, as far as foreign policy is concerned.

Since Americans, themselves, have said the same things for 150 years, it's hard to see why they caused so much pain, unless Americans are looking for excuses to jump on the perfidious British and have jumped on that so-and-so Attlee because he stuck out his neck.

What the poor fellow cannot understand, being an authoritarian at heart, is that Americans limit their government's power to make snap decisions because they are leary of politicians.

No socialist can understand that. Socialists believe politicians are qualified to decide anything, provided they are socialists, as all politicians should be—according to socialists.

Reorganization Flaw

By David Lawrence

Chiefs Would Lose Voice in Defense Councils

Selection of a new set of members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and a new chairman does not lessen but rather intensifies the growing opposition to the proposed reorganization plan for the Department of Defense. It is the principle rather that the personnel which is important in the problem.

This plan, which Thomas K. Finletter, formerly secretary of the air force, says he regards as a move toward a "German General Staff" system, would enhance the power of the chairman of the Joint Chiefs and make him a military boss over all three armed services.

The reaction from the Air Force to the appointment of a Navy admiral as chairman of the Joint Chiefs has been adverse largely because of the assumption that such a chairman can wield extraordinary powers over the Air Force.

Since Adm. Radford, designated for chairman of the Joint Chiefs, is to serve only two years, it may be expected that the reaction among naval officers to the designation of an Air Force general as chairman two years hence would also be adverse.

The new reorganization plan is excellent in its provisions governing a consolidation of civilian functions and should lead to economies, but it is a step backward on the military side.

Undoubtedly the administration, in selecting Adm. Radford to be chairman of the Joint Chiefs, believed that this would tend to mollify those opponents of the new reorganization plan who come from the Navy, but actually opposition is coming from all three services because it is not a sound military plan.

It so happens that Adm. Radford is one of the ablest military officers America has ever had and undoubtedly he was chosen by President Eisenhower because of two things:

First, a commitment publicly made in 1949 before a congressional committee by the then Gen. Eisenhower that the chairmanship should go by rotation to the different services and that he thought a Navy admiral should be selected next.

Second, an admiration for Adm. Radford's work in the Pacific, where he has been commander in chief of the fleet.

There is some mischievously expressed opposition to Adm. Radford in certain quarters on the ground that he testified in criticism of the Air Force concepts on weapons in the famous congressional hearings in 1949 concerning the same hearings and called the Navy admirals "'Fancy Dans" and predicted there never would be another amphibious landing. He was promoted just the same by President Truman to be chairman of the Joint Chiefs.

The new team selected for the military-advice function which the Joint Chiefs of Staff is supposed to perform for the secretary of defense and the President is an excellent one in every respect.

Gen. Ridgway, who becomes chief of staff of the Army, has been commander in chief in the Far East during a large part of the Korean War and also commander in chief of Allied Forces in Europe.

Gen. Twining, who becomes chief of the Air Force, is one of the ablest men in that service, with an excellent command record during the last war.

As for Adm. Carney, who becomes chief of Naval Operations, he has been serving as commander of the Allied Forces in the south of Europe and has an especial familiarity with the Mediterranean. He made an enviable record as chief of staff to Adm. Halsey in the sea battles of the war against Japan.

This is an all-around team of able men with global experience—a much better team on the whole than has been available to the President of the United States since the days of World War II.

It is a group competent to give military advice with a world perspective and to operate the armed services effectively if a big war should break out.

But a much more sensible step would have been to have made Adm. Radford chief of Naval Operations and to have abolished the post of "chairman of the Joint Chiefs," creating in its place a Joint Chiefs, with Adm. Carney in that job.

As a former deputy chief of Naval Operations in charge of logistics and as an experienced staff officer and planner, he would have been ideal as the leader of the Joint Staff responsible directly to the heads of the three armed services.

The reorganization plan now before Congress has in it so many vulnerable provisions that it cannot be critically examined on the basis simply of what able persons will execute the plan but only with the more important principle in mind that a system is being established for a long period of time.

This system could demoralize the spirit of all the armed services

San Francisco

The people of the West have known vividly, and at first hand, the serious threat to state and local powers and rights presented by the socialistic schemes of the Department of the Interior during the days of Roosevelt and Truman.

Consequently, the recent decision of Secretary McKay to drop the gigantic Hell's Canyon Project has attracted more attention out here than almost any other act of the

The company applied for permission from the Federal Power Commission to build these projects. That permission up to this date has been withheld.

The major reason for this failure to obtain the necessary permission has been the violent opposition of the Interior Department.

That Department had another plan. It was to build the highest power dam in the United States in Hell's Canyon, higher than the needs power as soon as it can get it.

The private dams will be ready long before the Hell's Canyon Dam could be put into operation.

The three private dams would provide eight- ninths of the power of the federal dam at about one-third of the cost.

In the present struggle to balance the budget, Congress would certainly refuse to proceed with such a monumental expense.

Another reason and a good one

Success Story

It now appears that Adm. Arthur W. Radford's presence on Formosa when Charles E. Wilson and Dwight Eisenhower visited that island just before inauguration day was the clincher in an upside-down success story.

Adm. Radford made a favorable impression on the new secretary of defense and his new commander in chief; the impression was described as favorable at the time. But until his appointment as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff was announced, no one had guessed it had been that favorable.

In the autumn of 1949, Adm. Radford had taken part in what became known as the "admirals' revolt." He was one of a group of navy "diehards" who lashed out at the Pentagon for "stripping the Navy of its offensive power."

The revolt was put down mercilessly and hard. It was assumed that its principal participants had ruined their careers by talking out of turn. Traditionalists berated them for breaking out of the discipline they demanded of their inferiors. It was the first evidence the public had been given that unification was not working.

But Adm. Radford now is going to be No. 1 in the military hierarchy. It is unlikely he will be asked for his success story, still more unlikely that he will give it of his own volition. It would be bad for military discipline, though reassuring to the surviving members of that race of independent thinkers who defy majority opinion when they know they're right.

That Weighty Warning

If it were not for our friends the professors, there would not be nearly as much human interest lightness in the world. They have a lot of fun in their researches and quasi-solemn pronouncements, and the rest of us sit back and smile with them—seldom at them. For instance, four University of Minnesota biochemists told the Federation of American Societies for Biochemical Research the other day that women seem to be getting fatter—not just larger, but with an increasing ratio of plain adipose tissue, which spells out fat. Both men and women tend to accumulate more fat as they advance to middle age, the savants informed as if this were news (which it isn't at all), but the men it seems take on more muscle, and as they grow heavier through the years they have a right to be reasonably proud of the red flesh causing this bulk. Women are not supposed to develop muscles, of course; it is unlady-like, and the researchers took a dim view of women's claimed muscle-building toil in the household, impolitely insisting that real toil would tend to keep them thin.

A tree is growing through the bathroom of a home in Sturdivant, Wis., which sounds attractive. Most of us, however, will continue to get along with the Spanish-moss effect of drying Nylons.

All the flossy home magazines stress arrangements for eating in the kitchen. It sort of amazes us to learn that what we have been doing all these years is gracious living.

hearings in 1949 concerning the B-36.

Since Congress sought the testimony, it should not be any more of a barrier to his advancement than was the testimony of Gen. Bradley. The latter, as chief of staff of the Army, testified in the by depriving their chiefs of less and less voice in the higher councils of the government where military policy is to be made by a secretary of defense and a military boss with a general staff of his own.

All Men Are Created

By TRUMAN TWILL

A puzzling story about Columbia University says that by 1960 no fraternity which practices discrimination will be allowed on the campus there.

The story explains this is going to happen because the university is opposed to the policy of some fraternities of discriminating against students because of race, color, or releigion.

Thus it is made to appear that Columbia is going to make it possible for any student to get into any fraternity he wants to get into, as far as race, color, or religion might be concerned.

This may be feasible as far as those three grounds for discrimination go. Other institutions have tried the same thing. But what's puzzling is how discrimination is going to be done away with as a basis for deciding who is going to join a fraternity and who isn't going to join it.

There are a dozen other grounds for discrimination which can be just as galling to victims of discrimination.

One of the basic grounds, as far as colleges and universities are concerned, is intelligence. There are a number of young men and young women as sore as boils when their applications for admission are turned down because they have shown no aptitude for hitting the books. Yet it is not their fault they are slow learners.

Among those admitted to the campuses, there is still further opportunity for hurt feelings when discrimination sets in. Some of the boys are tapped for athletics, some are no. Some are popular, some are not.

Among the young ladies, some have too many dates, some don't have enough. Some are handsome, some are plain. All of these things may become in one sense or another a basis for discrimination.

What's puzzling about the Columbia story is the philosophy involved — that human beings are going to get rid of certain grounds of discrimination by 1960 and that everything will be dandy - peachy from there on.

Take it from one who has been discriminated against all his life for things he could not help, this discrimination stuff is more complex than anyone thinks who starts to get rid of it in one or two narrow particulars.

In grade school, I was discriminated against because I came from the wrong end of town. The tough kids from the other end wouldn't give me the time of day without an order from the principal.

In high school, I was discriminated against because I did not make the Honor Roll. Was it my fault I was born with a lame brain?

In college, I was discriminated against because I did not weigh 180 pounds, have the vision of a vulture, the speed of a rabbit and the strength of an ox. Fellows who had those attributes had an inside track on all the varsity jobs and also with the co-eds.

Ever since, I have been discriminated against because I never was the type voted most likely to succeed. Was it my fault I was born with a strong sense of diffidence and characteristics which alienated more affections than they won?

I think Columbia University is spoofing. Someone must be twisting its academic arm.

New Eisenhower administration.

Despite the fact that federal projects have done a great deal for what are called the seventeen "reclamation" states, a great fear has prevailed, lest, in accepting these bounties from Washington, there be fastened upon local industries and agencies of government the iron rule of a distant bureaucracy.

The Hell's Canyon issue is an excellent illustrative case.

Far up in the mountainous and heavily wooded region of Eastern Oregon and Western Idaho is a very deep and almost inaccessible, fissure through which the Snake River flows in a northerly direction.

That river, despite its name, is a friendly and tractable servant of man. The abundant life of southern Idaho largely depends on it. The people of that state have come to regard the river as their special trust.

Despite the rantings of demagogues about private power companies, the State of Idaho has an efficient and very popular concern known as the Idaho Power Company.

This company after the war planned and proposed to build five dams to enlarge its output of electric power and so to contribute to the development of the state which it serves and perhaps to sell power in neighboring states.

Later, the plan for five dams was changed to three dams. On these dams the company proposes to spend $170 million of its money.

The property thus created would not only serve the public, but it would be a rich source of taxation. Hoover Dam and twice or three times as expensive as Grand Coulee.

This monster would back up such a mass of water that the sites desired by the Idaho Power Company would be inundated. Hence, the issue has been one or the other of the projects public or private, tax free or taxable, power deferred some years or power in two years.

Secretary McKay has decided that the Interior Department will withdraw its opposition to the plans of the Idaho Power Company and hence will to all intents and purposes shelve the Hell's Canyon project.

His reasons are most convincing.

In the first place, the Northwest is probably that President Eisenhower has certain ideas about these vast and expensive federal projects.

Meanwhile, the radicals in the Senate — the same ones who recently invented new names for a filibuster — will scream about a "sell-out to private monopoly."

No doubt, they have another name for a monopoly when the monopolist is the federal government.

The Federal Power Commission must, of course, pass upon the Idaho Power Company's application. But it would seem that no good reason for adverse action in that quarter can still exist, since the Interior Department is no longer opposed.

Important Washington Woman

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON

Mrs. Katherine G. Howard, the little woman from Beacon Street, Boston, remembered by millions of TV viewers as Secretary of the 1952 Republican convention, has a big voice now in civil defense planning for the nation.

Wife of Charles P. Howard, attorney and former Massachusetts State senator, and mother of two grown children, the charming and brainy Mrs. Howard recently was named by the President as assistant administrator of the Federal Civil Defense Administration. Already she is being heard by womenfolk over the country.

"Civil defense is the responsibility of the community, especially women and homemakers," she says. "Civilian defense must be reduced to manageable proportions. Women are great managers because they have to be. We'd like to see more women daytime wardens. We'd like to see them take a more active part in home preparedness against possible air raids."

Public knowledge of the need for survival action, she says, has increased in the past months. Today more than four million persons are serving in local and state Civil Defense Corps, collectively known as the U. S. Civil Defense and Mrs. Howard says more than 52 million adults know a few of the simple things they should do to protect themselves against atomic attack.

Mrs. Howard is advising women to set up air raid shelters in the basements of their homes, complete with food, water and medical supplies; to clean out their attics to eliminate fire hazards and to have baking soda on hand to mix with water for burn treatments. She also urges them to remember to tune in radio channels 640 or 1240 in case of attack.

Mrs. Howard, who commutes between her Boston brownstone home and her new Washington apartment, expects to be an on-the-scene witness of an atomic bomb test at Yucca Flats, Nev., soon. After that she will visit Federal Civil Defense offices in San Francisco and Seattle, Although she was born in Guyton, Ga., and grew up in North Carolina, Mrs. Howard's parents were New Englanders. She is a Smith College graduate, active in civic and community work and a leading Boston Socialite. Beginning her political career as a precinct worker, she has been a member of the Republican National Committee since 1945 and was once its secretary. She was the only woman member of the Eisenhower Campaign Strategy and Policy Committee.

Nevertheless, it isn't at all difficult to picture this very efficient woman knitting pink and blue afghans for baby carriages, collecting antiques and liking to cook. She has won prizes for flower arrangements. In addition to her apartment here and her house in Boston, she oversees the management in the restoration of a 125-year-old house in Goshen, N. H.

The distilling business was one of the early industries in the county. One of the first was of the old copper-worm order and attached to it was a horse mill to aid in preparation of the mash. A necessary appendage was a hog pen. A well afforded the necessary water for all practical purposes. In the spring of 1829 Jacob Rice of Shepherdstown, Va. came into possession of the premises and continued it for several years before going West to grow up with the country. The dwelling house remained for some time and finally was sold for $3.

Increase in Building Boosts Interest in Home Sewage Systems

Functions of Septic Tanks Described

Because of a rapidly increasing amount of home construction in the country, where sewage systems are not available, Marion builders and realtors have noted a growing interest on the part of home-builders in septic tanks.

Realizing their need for information about septic tanks, Marion County Sanitarian R. H. Augenstein has prepared the following article on "The Septic Tank and Its Use" for country residents:

"This article is written to give the owner a better understanding of what to expect from his septic tank.

"In rural areas and new subdivisions where people have no sanitary sewers and they wish to have a modern home, there is no alternative other than the use of a septic tank. Then a filter bed or tile disposal field must be installed to dispose of the effluent.

"Fresh sewage is dark gray in color and has very much the appearance of soapy water. For each 150 gallons of sewage there is about one pound of solids. Of these solids, about one-half is mineral and the other half vegetable and animal matter. The vegetable and animal matter breaks down still further into about 40 per cent in suspension, which will settle out over a period of time, and 60 per cent in solution, which will not settle out.

"Disposal of the settleable and non-settleable portions, and disposal of the effluent water constitute the major problems of sewage treatment.

How Tank Workds

"Sewage is usually delivered from the house to a special digestive tank called a septic tank, which is simply a retaining chamber which assists and speeds the natural decomposition process. As the sewage enters the tank, portions of the solid matter settle to the bottom where decomposition begins, and the lighter particles and grease rise to the top to form scum.

"The action of decomposition is brought about by certain types of bacteria known as aerobic and anaerobic bacteria that thrive in the absence of air. They attack the organic solids and break them up into liquids and gases. The digestion is almost complete with the exception of a small quantity of material which does not decompose and remains in the bottom of the tank as sludge.

"The bacteria action is essential to the successful operation of the tank. When chemicals are emptied into the tank, or discharged down the drain and reach the tank, the bacteria action is retarded or stopped. Consequently, it is not good practice to use lye and various other preparations to open clogged drains.

Liquid Forced Out

"As the raw sewage enters the tank, an equal volume of liquid is forced out the discharge side, so that the liquid level always remains the same in the tank. The inlet is provided with a baffle, or other provision, so that the incoming sewage is diverted downward. This arrangement permits the scum to remain undisturbed and limits the possibility of raw sewage being discharged immediately. A baffle at the outlet also helps accomplish this purpose.

"Although the discharged effluent has most of the solid matter removed, it is far from pure and has an offensive odor. In no case should water from rain spouts be discharged into a septic tank.

"For the average two-bedroom home a 500-gallon septic tank should be large enough to be satisfactory. In some of the larger homes a 1,000-gallon tank is much better.

"To get good results from the septic tank, it should be cleaned about every three years."

tensions between the Russian bloc and the rest of the world.

The eagerness with which Moscow has played up the outburst of differences between U. S. and British officials this week is regarded by some diplomats here as evidence they were right all along in seeing a sinister design in the Kremlins peace drive. This design, many experts believe, is to split the Western Powers at a time when their united strength presents a serious barrier to Soviet ambitions.

Eisenhower declined yesterday to make an unqualified statement that there must be an armistice in Korea before he would agree to go into a Big Power meeting with Premier Malenkov of Russia. He said in effect he simply did not want to fix any rigid condition. But previously both he and Secretary of State Dulles have pointed up the truce negotiations as a major test of Communist intentions.

They did this against the background of developments which began with Stalins death, led to the latest Kremlin peace campaign and produced, at Red insistence, a resumption of the Panmunjom negotiations which had broken down in complete deadlock last October.

Outpost Texas, in savage hand-to-hand battle. But ROK counterattacks drove the Reds off three outposts by daylight and fighting still was underway at the other three, the Eighth Army reported.

Several hundred Chinese have been killed in the daily attacks which have won the Communists little or nothing.

Army officials estimate that at least 1,000 Reds have been killed or wounded in the past two days of stepped up fighting along the 155-mile battle front.

These circumstances contrived to give broader significance to the Reds' conduct at the truce talks.

The central issue has been the same for many months—whether the truce agreement would compel all prisoners of war to go home or whether, as the U. N. has insisted, those unwilling to return home should be set free. U. N. estimates are that 14,000 Chinese Red prisoners and 34,000 North Koreans would resist repatriation.

The Communists first came up with a plan to turn these POWs over to a single neutral nation. After the U. N. tried to find out how the plan would work and whether the POW's who still refused repatriation would be set free, the Reds came up with a plan for a five-nation repatriation commission.

To this latter proposal the U. N. submitted a counter-proposal in Korea Wednesday and the Reds rejected it Thursday.

Studying the rejection, officials are said to have decided yesterday to question the Reds on various details in an effort to find out to what extent they are willing to negotiate at all.

New Y Building Big Hit With Marion Children

This is one of a series of articles dealing with the approaching fund campaign for the new Marion YMCA. The drive for $148,500 will get under way Monday and will continue for one week.

—:—

Best source to learn of the need for a new YMCA building in Marion is that group of people who use the facilities the most. That would be the younger set and they tell you at a minute's notice, that they are 100 percent for the project.

Making the biggest hit with the youth of the city is expanded recreational facilities which will be available in the new building. Girls point to the fact that they will have equal use of the new structure with the boys.

Following are the views of a group of boys and girls, both members of the Y and non members. All make the statement they can hardly wait to move into the new building. They were asked the question: What are you looking forward to in the new YMCA?'

Anna Belle Terry, 10, of 1059 Davids, St., a student at St. Mary School: "Learning to swim in a big new swimming pool and playing on the gym floor. I like all kinds of games that will be in the new Y."

Layton Stewart, 16, of 363 Hane Ave., a student at Harding High School and a Gra-Y leader: "I am looking forward to swimming in that new pool, playing ping pong on those new tables and pool. I'm looking forward to all the recreation in the new Y. I understand we are going to have a co-ed room with no posts or obstacles. That will be nice."

Lonnie Brammer, 11, of 537 Scranton Ave., a pupil at the Silver Street School: "I am looking forward to enough equipment in games so that everyone can play and have fun. I think it will be good sport. I kinda' think if the Y needs more money everyone should contribute!"

Phillip Brothers, 12, of 429 Avondale Ave., pupil at Silver Street School: "The larger pool and I understand its going to be deeper. I will like to play basketball on the big gym floor. I guess there will be larger shower rooms. We are going to have more fun because more people can play."

Gene Bowman, 12, of 269 Cass Ave., pupil at Silver St. School: "Gym and swimming. The club rooms will be nicer. That pool is going to be lots of fun. The craft shop will sure be swell with all new tools and machines. I want to have fun in that new building. I want to join Junior Hi-Y. I am looking forward to learning more sports."

Anna Fairchild, 17, of Marion rural route 6: "The larger co-ed room and swimming, that the girls have just as much chance to participate in the program as the boys do. It will be a swell place to spend your time rather than running around on the streets as most kids have to do now."

Joyce Walker, 16, of 306 Blaine Ave.: "All the many activities we will have that we haven't had in this building. The large swimming pool, the Club Co-ed room and I think its wonderful to have a program for girls. I am very proud to be able to become a member of the new Y."

The grand jury Tuesday afternoon heard testimony from operators of five Marion County business places, as well as Sheriff Obenour, after the probe was initiated following reports of alleged gambling received by County Prosecutor Carhart's office.

Judge Smith, in his charge to the jury Monday, read to them a copy of a letter sent to him which Carhart wrote to Obenour on April 20.

The letter informed the sheriff that the prosecutor's office had received reports that "pinball machines and punchboards paying off in money or things of value are in use and in possession of a number of persons operating public places" in Marion County.

The prosecutor asked the sheriff "to investigate these reports and if true, immediately take the necessary criminal action."

Orders Machines Removed

Although his investigation failed to turn up evidence of gambling, the sheriff said the feeling was in his department that payoffs were being made, and he issued an order banning all pinball machines and punchboards from public places outside the city limits.

Sheriff Obenour this morning reported that a canvass of business

N.Y. Central Tries Speed-Up Ticket Sales

Bureau Service Gets Under Way At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—The New York Central Railroad, promising to eliminate waiting in lines, started selling tickets today from a speeded-up bureau at Terminal Tower.

The new bureau—wired for sound—combines the ticket-selling, information and reservation offices which previously had been at three different places.

A central spokesman said the new system would make it possible to sell space on trains as fast as clerks can make change.

Sellers will have pre-printed tickets, revolving tables for tickets and streamlined "ready-reference" files.

Lighted so it can be seen both by customers and sellers is an "availability board" showing reserved space available on all trains stopping at the tower.

Previously clerks had to write in on reserved tickets the space bought, the train number, the destination, the departure time, etc. Now that is already printed.

If you want to take a long, complicated trip, over a number of roads, the NYC has a special lounge. Customers can sit on leather chairs and listen to music while clerks work out the tickets. That, said the railroad, makes it easier on the customer and keeps him from slowing up the line for short-haul customers.

The NYC, which met stern opposition when it proposed piping radio music into New York City's Grand Central Station, points out that the music here will be "non-commercial."

Union statisticians figure the nearly 600,000 workers in the basic steel industry now average $2.06 an hour. The industry says the average is $2.16.

The union is holding separate meetings with top basic steel companies. However, the spotlight is focused on U. S. Steel meetings because that company usually sets the pattern followed by the industry.

As talks opened between 35-man teams representing the union and company, USW President David J. McDonald said:

"Pay increases are warranted on the basis of the economic needs of the members of the United Steelworkers, their increasing productivity, the prosperous state of the industry and the economic situation of the country as a whole.'

John A. Stephens, U. S. Steel vice president in charge of industrial relations and an old hand at such negotiations, said his company "hopes that wisdom will prevail and that the conclusions reached in collective bargaining will be in the best interests of all.'

tion and what he thinks it has accomplished.

One of Eisenhowers' objectives in the two talks apparently will be to assure the country that its basic military security will not be damaged by promised spending slashes.

At the same time, he is expected to try to explain why it might be dangerous to cut deeply enough into the arms funds now to eliminate red ink spending and achieve the balanced budget goal he has said is a major objective of his administration.

Eisenhower will have the opportunity, if he chooses to take it, of blaming the Democratic Truman administration for piling up huge fund carryovers which he has complained make it difficult to reduce expenditures in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Whether he makes any recommendations for continuing present high taxes apparently depends on the ability of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey to come up with a plan of action acceptable to a GOP Congress that wants to fulfill 1952 campaign promises to cut taxes.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to give statehood to Alaska was approved today by the House Territories Subcommittee by a 12 to 5 vote.

SHORT CUT

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP) —Police Chief Joe Carroll had a dictaphone installed at headquarters to "save man hours" by letting patrolmen telephone their reports direct to the machine rather than return from their beat in time to type them out.

establishments in the county known to have had pinball machines indicated that the operators "seem to be complying with the order."

Several business place operators, who owned pinball machines, had not removed the machines from the premises, the sheriff reported, but in these cases the machines were disconnected and the coin slots taped up.

Referring to the manner in which the business operators were complying with his order, he said, "The cooperation is appreciated" by his office.

In addition to Edington, others indicted included Paul H. Waycaster, 32, of Columbus, and Charles A. Wilson, 37, of Chicago, on charges of unarmed robbery. They were arrested May 1, minutes after A. W. Lares of 522 E. Church St., was robbed by two men in an alley north of E. Church St. and east of S. High St. The charges against the pair were signed by Lares who alleged they took $2 and a cigaret lighter from him by force and violence.

Indicted on two separate counts of fraud and forgery was Raymond Elsworth Thomas, 31, of near Marion.

Other indictments were returned against Robert L. Lehman, fraud; Eugene Johnson, larceny; Charley Bond, two counts of fraud; H. Pauley, fraud; and W. J. Meyer, three counts of forgery.

No indictments were returned in the following cases: Phillip A. Hall, manslaughter; Howard R. Wilson, fraud; Virgil E. Kendall, fraud; John Junior Caldwell, rape; and Ellis Minor, fraud.

The grand jury had no changes to recommend in the management of the Marion County Jail following the customary inspection made this morning.

In their report, the jury said. by Virgil Ray Augustus, 45, of 668 Hocking St. They said Miss Harris and Augustus were in an upstairs room drinking most of the afternoon and she came staggering down the stairs with a knife wound in the upper left chest about 2:30 p.m.

Miss Harris apparently died on the way to the City Hospital in a truck owned by Alfred La Vette of 544 Jefferson St.

Police Chief Tom Coon said today that a statement was obtained from Augustus which indicated he may have stabbed Miss Harris during an argument brought on in part by the drinking. Augustus pleaded not guilty to a second degree murder charge in Municipal Court Thursday and was bound over to the Marion County Grand Jury on a $15,000 bond. He is being held in the Marion County jail. The grand jury has scheduled a hearing of the case next Wednesday.

Meanwhile, funeral services for Miss Harris were completed today. Services will be held Saturday at 9:30 a.m. at the Mt. Zion Baptist Church. The Rev. J. C. Collins will officiate. Burial will be in the Marion Cemetery. Friends may call at the church after 6 p.m. tonight.

31 Members Give Program For Inter-Club Meeting

Thirty - one members of the Marysville Kiwanis Club were guests and presented the program in an inter-club meeting with the Marion Kiwanis Club Thursday noon at Hotel Harding.

The nine clubs in the Seventh Division each year hold a round of inter-club meetings, with a fellowship cup presented to the host club at each meeting. A collection is taken and at the end of the round the club contributing the largest sum of money when it received the cup receives the total sum of money from all the meetings to be used in its work with underprivileged children.

The Marion Club is scheduled to make an inter-club visit to the Galion Club on May 26.

The Rev. M. E. Hollensen, first vice president, presided for the meeting in the absence of L. L. Dickey, who is ill at home. Arthur Busch of Marion, a former lieutenant governor, introduced Paul Plasterer of Marysville, immediate past lieutenant governor, who made the presentation of the fellowship cup. Roger Sillars, president of the Marysville Club, also was introduced.

Guest speaker for the program, arranged by the visiting club, was John Strickler, who for the past 11 years has been supervisor of art in the Marysville schools, all 12 grades.

He told his audience he has 600 pupils in the 12 grades, and in addition conducts a night class for adults. He explained the three main types of art, which include the conventional type, the style type, which is a stretch of the imagination, and abstract art in which lines and spaces are used.

He showed examples of the work of various students, describing the various types used. He explained that from the abstract design you go into lettering which is the beginning of commercial art work. Also, he said, they study fashion art. But, Mr. Strickler said his aim is not to produce artists, but to enable the student to gain in art appreciation.

Mr. Strickler also showed posters made by students for the Ohio Sesquicentennial observance, a requirement of junior and senior high school art students.

He displayed samples of ceramic work, in which he also is an instructor.

Guests at the meeting were Ray Evans of Lima, Edward J. Conning of Cincinnati, and Charles Bowers of Marion.

Ike's Stand On Red China Draws Fire

Hint of Possible Admission to U.N. Angers Senators

WASHINGTON (AP)—Several senators displayed little liking today for President Eisenhower's stated position on possible admission of Red China into the United Nations in the event a truce is reached in Korea.

The President told his news conference yesterday he would not now say that admission of the Peiping Communist regime to the U. N. should follow an armistice. He did not add that he would oppose China's admission under any circumtances.

Some lawmakers said they saw a possibility the President may have left the gate ajar for future compromises.

Among these, Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said he is categorically opposed either to U. S. recognition of Communist China or to its U. N. admission under any circumstances.

"I think this country should absolutely oppose at every point their admission to the U. N.," Bridges declared.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), a foreign relations committee member, said if Red China gets into the U. N. "all Asia is lost and that includes Korea, Burma, Indochina and Indonesia and I don't like to think what would happen to Japan."

Suggestions by British leaders Clement Attlee and Sir Winston Churchill that Red China be given a U. N. seat if there is a Korean armistice have touched off a storm in the Senate which could result in some drastic cuts in foreign aid allotments to Britain.

Bridges, who heads the Senate Appropriations Committee, said the controversy is "bound to affect action on foreign aid funds' and Sen. Taft of Ohio, the Republican leader, observed that the row "won't do the British any good" on that score.

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) told the Senate yesterday the time to reply effectively to Attlee's criticisms of American policies and personalities—with Churchill silent nearby—will come when the Senate considers foreign aid funds.

"We don't have to take it," Dirksen declared. "The pleaders for Great Britain will come to us as mendicants, as supplicants to say 'Mr. and Mrs. America, a little more, a little while longer.' When that time comes I know what the junior senator from Illinois will do."

Sen. Cooper (R-Ky), who tried to smooth over the Senate's ruffled feelings, said he was disturbed by fear that Attlee's speech might adversely affect Korean truce talks.

He said that while Churchill had been criticized for not responding to Attlee, "We in Congress have some responsibility, too, if we sit here and seem to acquiesce in rash and immoderate statements."

McCarthy said in a Senate speech yesterday Attlee was a "pygmy" who ought to apologize to Eisenhower for what McCarthy said was Attlee's suggestion the President not attend any future high level conferences.

He said Attlee reviewed Spanish Communist troops. He referred to the British labor party leader as "comrade Attlee."

Attlee fired back that he and his Labor party had been opposing British Communists "long before Sen. McCarthy was ever heard of."

Battle Due Next Week

Truckers Set for Bitter Senate Axle Tax Fight

COLMBUS, O. (AP) — A wary Senate next week will tackle the house-approved Republican highway program, a package proposal its sponsors call a compromise.

It is designed to raise 42½ million dollars a year for new highways through an axle-mile tax on heavy trucks and a penny-a-gallon increases in the present four-cent-a-gallon state gasoline tax; to keep truck license fees at their present level, and to give local governments a bigger cut of present highway funds.

Four of the five bills in the package will be studied by the Senate Taxation Committee headed by Sen. Donald Rolf (R-Hamilton). Hearings likely will open Tuesday night.

The fifth bill, to permit the highway department to hire outside engineers on big road projects, will go to the Senate Highway Committee. Its chairman is Sen. David Mck. Ferguson (R—Guernsey).

Most of the House highway package had the blessing of both the GOP leadership and Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche and it bounced through the lower house with substantial majorities.

On only one measure in the Republican program was there op- (D—Cuyahoga) as designed to "take the racket out of speed traps operating under some mayors." His bill takes from mayors the fees they now collect from cases they hear and turns the money into the general funds of municipalities. It puts mayors on a salary basis only.

The House also passed and sent to the Senate a bill to raise the income limits for families in low-rent public housing projects in 11 Ohio cities.

The House completed passage of a Senate bill to lift the private club liquor permit freeze on local units of national fraternal organizations and veterans' organizations chartered by Congress.

The Senate completed passage of a House-approved bill offered by the Youngstown delegation to permit use of emergency veterans housing for another two years. Such emergency housing still is in use in 67 counties.

The Senate also completed passage on bills to permit tenants as well as landowners to vote for soil conservation district supervisors and to give cities and counties the right to sell sewer, water line and road bonds before the projects are completed.

The Senate received bills:

position from the governor's office, and that measure—at least temporarily—has fallen on its face. It is a proposed constitutional amendment to permit issuance of one-half billion dollars' worth of bonds to finance a speeded up arterial highway building program.

The proposal fell 10 votes short of the required three-fifths majority in Wednesday night's hectic House session. A move has been made, however, to revive the proposal. The motion to reconsider its defeat may be taken up at any time.

An ultra-active trucking industry lobby, fighting to the last ditch to stave off Senate passage of the axle-mile tax, is reported to have found a formidable array of support in the 33-member Senate.

Minority Leader Joseph W. Bartunek (D—Cuyahoga), an opponent of the new truck tax despite Lausche's support of it, predicts the axle-mile bill will have tough sledding in the Senate. Reports of Republican opposition vary widely.

Sen. Lowell Fess (R—Greene) this week co-sponsored a bill to substitute for the House highway-fund bill a 1-½cent a gallon gasoline tax increase, a $2 increase in the present $10 auto license fee, and another 10 per cent increase in truck license fees on top of present rates.

He estimated 15 to 16 of the 23 Senate Republicans were opposed to the bill to make commercial vehicles with three or more axles pay a highway use fee based on how many miles they travel on how many axles.

But Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem (R—Athens) said later he almost could count Republican axle-mile opponents "on the fingers of one hand."

The Legislature started its weekend recess Thursday after each house passed four bills.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill described by its author, Rep. Andrew C. Putka To increase the pay of county treasurers on a basis of population by not more than $1,500 a year.

To require mechanical directional signal lights on the front and rear of all motor vehicles.

Inside Labor

Jap Reds

By Victor Riesel

Now it's the "Land of the Rising 'Red' Sun."

While we've focused our attention on the Korean truce talkathon, Soviet sabotage, espionage and propaganda bureaus have smuggled millions of dollars (in gold and easily convertible opium, sent directly to the Nipponese Communist party) and thousands of undercover agents into Japan.

RIESEL

It has paid off for the Comintern.

So successful has this Operation Infiltration been that the Soviet undercover "apparat" now dominates the massive Japan Federation of Labor to the point where it has become a vulgar anti-American, anti-Eisenhower propaganda front.

Through control of this labor federation, SOHYO, the Soviets can paralyze the Nipponese islands by slashing railroad schedules, metal mining, coal digging, electric power production — and the construction and maintenance of America's 600 bases upon which pivots our entire strength in the Orient.

SO ARROGANT is this Operation Infiltration that the Japanese Communists now publish 1500 magazines and newspapers, openly anti-American.

So nose-thumbing an operation is it that part of its methodical drive to undermine American strength consists of publication of the "People's Police", aimed at influencing the Japanese police force, which we rebuilt.

The Reds also publish the "People's Soldier", designed to disaffect the Japanese National Safety Corps (the army), which we rebuilt, and the "Tourist", distributed among our own GI garrisons.

Behind this drive, as in all other global Soviet campaigns, are the Russian dominated labor unions.

The Communists control the SOHYO (counterpart of our AFL-CIO), which has 4,027,000 members. SOHYO, in turn, seems to have our own picayune propaganda operation, the United States Information Service, buffaloed and confused.

Here's why:

RECENTLY the SOHYO president, a man named Takano, dispatched a written appeal to world labor leaders to join his federation in an international "peace" drive.

In Takano's jargon, "peace" is a dirty word. It means appeasement.

Takano received a reply from the Communist Chinese labor chief, Chu Seh Fan, a little man who mooched free meals from American labor leaders back in the mid-40's by peddling Communist secrets and gossip. Now he has turned his kimono.

There were also replies from the Indians.

The letter was ignored by America's labor chiefs because it had the subtlety of a pie-in-the-face gag and was actually a snide attack on Gen. Eisenhower. However, somebody in the State Department urged our people to send along a "real hot reply." Walter Reuther did just that.

The SOHYO letter had berated Gen. Eisenhower for saying that Asians should be fighting Asians in this war of liberation.

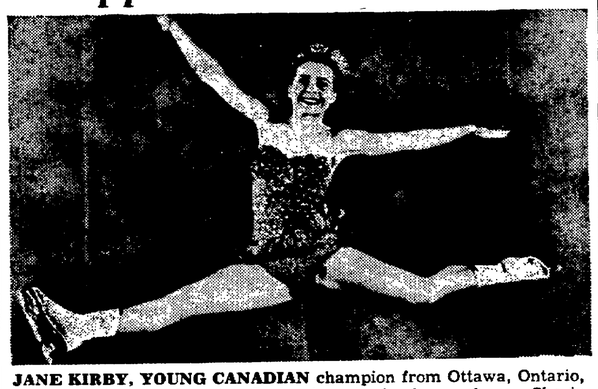
REUTHER pointed out to the Japanese that it was Russia and the Sovietized Chinese who were responsible for the killing of Asians —in Korea, where Red Chinese troops were killing South Koreans, and in Indo - China, where other Chinese "volunteers" were massacring the Asians there.

Reuther said that so long as the Russians were the aggressors, American labor would support rearmament for ourselves and the free world. Reuther also sent a copy to the United States Information Service headquarters in Tokyo.

The SOHYO labor crowd was not exactly happy over Reuther's retort. Takano published the others. But not Reuther's.

It's absolutely vital to note at this moment of Sir Winston Churchill's move to get us into an East-West parley with the Soviets, that when Sir Vincent Tewson, leader of the British labor move-

Canadian Ice Champion To Appear in Show Here



JANE KIRBY, YOUNG CANADIAN champion from Ottawa, Ontario, who was discovered in Ice Cycles tryouts, is shown above. She is one of the many skating stars who appear in the 1953 Cycles which open here May 20.

—:—

One of the star skaters who will be seen in the 1953 Ice Cycles which open at the Coliseum Wednesday is Jane Kirby, youthful Canadian champion.

She appears with Marshall Garrett in "Birds of a Feather", one of ten production numbers and twenty acts of the eighth edition of the Cycles.

Feature of the show which stays in Marion for five days is "Cinderella", with Margaret Field and Jimmy Lawrence in featured roles.

Opening number of the show is Gypsy Gold, which has a semi-oriental Gypsy theme and is contracted into the new modern dance movement. There is also Jingle Bells, glorifying Christmas; Juke Box Jamboree, with a collegiate atmosphere; State of the Union, a precision skating spectacle; Dance Date, a new and captivation modern waltz idea; and Minstrel Daze, the grand finale of the show with the entire cast in action.

Several comedians are in the Cycles' cast. They include Joe Setta and Johnny Labrecque, billed as "The Daffy Duo"; Esco LaRue, surprise funnyman; and little Chuckie Stein.

Mail orders for tickets for the Cycles are pouring in to the box offices in Marion from outlying districts, Dee Poli, show publicist reported. Towns represented in orders for tickets are Ashland, Mansfield, New Washington, Tiffin, Lima, Delaware, Columbus, Galion, Marysville, Mt. Vernon, Kenton, Tiro, Bucyrus, Worthington, Crestline, Mt. Gilead, Defiance, Fostoria, Findlay, Upper Sandusky, Magnetic Springs, Bellefontaine, Coshocton and as far as Muncie, Marion and Huntington, Ind.

The Cycles will come to Marion from Troy where it played to capacity crowds at the Hobart Arena.

eventually the industrial worker is paying his own wage raise, he explained.

He also said, "Maybe farmers are so used to supports that we can't get along without them."

He continued, "The sad part about the farm problem is that the farmer can't hold his product in storage when it is ready for market." This means that the farmer, unlike the industrialist, can not hold back his product and create artificial shortages to boost prices, he explained.

Blames Dairy Substitutes

Paul Augenstein, dairy farmer and Grange representative, said that he is most concerned over the rapid decline in price of dairy products. He said that dairy substitutes are partly to blame for this condition.

Perhaps the answer to the problem is a widespread advertising program by farmers and distributors of dairy products to bring the benefits of the use of natural dairy products before the public, he said.

Robert Eisele, chairman of the board of directors of the Farm Bureau Cooperative Association in Marion County, talked on the decline of foreign trade.

He said the export of farm products was down two-thirds in 1952. Reason for this is partly because the American farmer is priced out of the market, he said.

Calling foreign trade a two-way street, he said that we must have imports before we can have exports.

A question and answer period then followed in which members of the audience directed questions to various members of the panel.

Speaks on Milk Prices

A point brought out by Clark during this period was that while the price of milk has not declined much for the consumer it has fallen sharply for the producer. He said that dairy farmers get about $4.50 a hundred pounds for their product while the consumer pays about $9 a hundred. This means too much money is getting away between the producer and the consumer and the farmer is not getting his fair share of it, he said.

Loudenslager, in answer to a question on the merits of the price support program, said he believes the American farmer might be better off in the long run if there were no support prices. But this would only be possible if government subsidy to all other industries were also abandoned, he explained.

Following this question and answer period, Smoot summarized the talks of the four men and Clutter reviewed the minutes of the meeting.

The group was then asked to cast votes on a poll sheet containing yes and no answers to four main questions and five sub-questions.

Tally of the votes for the four main questions were as follows: Are you seriously worried about the decline of farm prices, 55 yes, 13 no, and 4 uncertain. Do you think farmers should do all they can to help themselves get 100 per cent of partiy, 65 yes, 6 no, one uncertain. Do you favor increased foreign trade if it means increased imports of farm products as well as increased exports, yes, 37, no 13, and uncertain 13. Do you believe that there should be a government price support program, yes, 47, no 17, 4 uncertain.

To the last question 13 said the supports should be allowed to go beyond 90 per cent but not below 75 per cent, and 15 said the government should guarantee 100 per cent of parity on all basic farm commodities.

The meeting closed after the ballotting and those attending were served sandwiches, pie and coffee.

Harold Patrick, congressional district 8 legislative spokesman for the Farm Bureau, served as secretary and was assisted by Lloyd Calhoun.

Ted Klueszewski of the Cincinnati Reds was once a star end on the University of Indiana football team.

YOU MAY SAY, we always have our own information service. Yet this bureau in Tokyo also killed the CIO chief's letter.

Why? This column doesn't impugn the U. S. Information Service's loyalty, just its sagacity. It feared bucking the SOHYO, although the Japanese labor chiefs are not that tender with us.

The Japanese unionists get on the Nipponese air and broadcast attacks on our efforts to save Korean democracy, on our army, on our occupation—and on our efforts to help Japan rearm so it can be an ally if the Russians really move.

All right. Let's not be beastly with these fellows. We can always start again at Guadalcanal.

Big Moments

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—It is the big moments that make our little lives memorable.

To a woman her wedding day, the day she gives birth to her first child, and the day she buries her husband — these traditionally have been the great landmark moments, although now a fourth is getting more popular: The day the judge gives her alimony.

The big moments with men are different. When a man marries he hardly senses what is happening to him. He is too stunned even to cry — "Help! let me out of here!" and he is in a similar daze when he first becomes a father.

A woman's treasured moments are always allied to tears, a man's generally are tied to his peacock pride, to a goal won.

Perhaps you can find some of your own best - remembered moments among the following:

1. The day you let go of the sofa and took your first uncertain step alone. Learning to walk is the biggest mistake a little man will ever make, and naturally he can't be your boss, the bank and your father-in-law.)

6. The day your best girl gives you a present. This both thrills and terrifies you, because if you have any brain at all you know by now that a woman doesn't spend her money on a man for nothing, and sooner or later she will catch you.

7. The frightening day when, heart in mouth, you tell your employer you'll have to get more money or look for another job—and he gives you your first raise. It is only $5, but no amount of money you ever make afterward will give you as much satisfaction. You have dared the lion in his den—and won.

8. The day your son beats up the kid next door. After four generations of black eyes, it is nice to know the family finally has come up with someone who can do something besides fight lost causes.

9. The day you win a Thanksgiving turkey in the office raffle. It is wonderful to know that, after says, "Dear, I am wrong and you are absolutely right. Let's do as you say."

This brings your life to a peak. After that there isn't much left for a man except to take his pension, start baby - sitting for his grandchildren — and look fondly back through the gathering mist at his big, big moments.

Four in County Enter State Ewe Flock Program

Four Marion County sheep farmers have entered the 1953 Commercial Ewe Flock Production program sponsored by the Ohio Sheep Improvement Association, Ralph H. Grimshaw, animal science extension specialist at Ohio State University reported today.

They are John W. Buyer, Frank Clay and the Trihaft Farms, all of near LaRue, and Cecil Murphy of near Marion.

Purpose of the program is to recognize commercial ewe flocks that are especially efficient in the production of lambs and wool, and to encourage greater participation in production practices that enable farmers to make more profit for the sheep enterprises.

Dwight Bare of near Prospect was second in his division in last year's commercial ewe flock program. He and the other winners in the statewide program were honored at the Farm and Home week program at Ohio State University last month.

Farmers enrolled keep track of the money earned in the sale of lambs and wool and records of the breeding, and are scored on the gross returns in money per ewe. Points are also counted for following proper feeding and management practices and for furnishing the necessary records, which are turned in to local county agents and forwarded to the Sheep Improvement Association.

CHURCH CLASS MEETS

Plans for serving the Harding High School Senior Breakfast and for serving dinners at First Evangelical and Reformed Church were made when the Happy Thought Class met Wednesday night. Mrs. Forest Hayman was hostess in her home at 680 Uncapher Ave. She was assisted by Mrs. Howard Smith. Devotions were by Mrs. Harold Neidhart. Roll call was on verses from the book of Proverbs, and a review of Proverbs was given by Mrs. Dora Jones for the program. Guests were Mrs. Earl Klingel and Mrs. Paul McCleary.

SHE WAS "LUCKY" BUT THIS AUTOMOBILE WASN'T. Mrs. Francis Morehouses (left) tells reporters "I guess I was one of the lucky ones" because she was only bruised when a tornado hit the Palace Grill in downtown Waco, Tex. A crane (right) lifts an automobile which was smashed in by some the buildings leveled by the twister.

Nevada Baccalaureate Will Be Held Sunday

"The Heavens Are Telling" from "The Creation" and the recessional, "Grand March from Aida" by Verdi, wil lbe played by Beth Traxler, pianist.

The Boys' Glee Club will sing "Steal Away" and "God Bless Our Native Land" and the "Girls' Glee Club will be featured in "Prayer Perfect," and "A Prayer." The sextet and octet will sing the "Lord's Prayer" following the Scripture reading by the Rev. Roberts.

Top mark was 144, earned by both Jeanette Nancy McDonald of St. Mary-of-the-Springs, Columbus, and William Transue of Mt. Vernon. Two students were tied for third and three others tied for fifth.

Of the 14,713 participants in the test, 235 took top state honors. More than 750 high schools were represented. The tests were given in 21 subjects taught in grades 9, 10, 11 and 12 and participants were selected to represent their school on the basis of the results of the preliminary district-state scholarship tests administered to 103,072 high school boys and girls in March in more than 825 high schools.

Students scoring in the highest 10 per cent in each subject will receive state certificates of recognition. The 20 highest students in each subject will receive certificates of place recognition and the remainder will receive honorable mention certificates.

NAMED HEAD COACH

YOUNGSTOWN, O. (AP) — Byron E. Morgan Jr., football coach at suburban Boardman High School the past six years, today was appointed head football coach at Geneva College in Beaver Falls, Pa.

Worthy Causes

By George Sokolsky

When I think of the Metropolitan Opera and the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the zoos and all the universities and colleges begging for money and not getting enough, it would seem that something has gone wrong in American thinking that requires discussion.

SOKOLSKY

I recently heard an appeal from the Negro Colleges, a very worthy cause. I receive appeals for funds for universities and many ask me to write columns about them.

If I did so for every worthy institution, it would be daily fare in this space.

THE FORD Foundation, for instance, possesses huge sums of money, which can increase every year. This Foundation exists on the profits earned by the Ford Motor Company, not in the past when Henry Ford was alive, but now as a going concern. It is spending this money on all sorts of projects, some of which are fantastic, like giving $15 million to the Fund for the Republic to investigate the congressional investigations.

I understand that the first million is to be spent to find out if there is any reason why the Fund for the Republic should spend the remainder. It is as peculiar as that.

But one sees no announcement that the Ford Foundation has done anything for America. The Ford Foundation could say that everything it does is beneficial to the United States, but that is a matter of study and judgment.

HERE IS the Metropolitan Opera Association performing wonders in the presentation of opera. It has had translations made of a number of classics into English and presented them with brilliant artistry.

I recently witnessed a thrilling, exciting performance of "Boris Godunov" in English at the Met which I am sure that I shall never forget. I saw a new staging of "Samson and Delilah" which gave a renewed vitality to this opera.

It would benefit the United States if such performances were given in a large number of cities. But there is no money.

Why cannot some of the money that the Ford Foundation is piddling away on trivia be used constructively for the saving of opera?

Perhaps those who manage this board are tone deaf. Perhaps they dislike all music except the rubbing of tin upon tin. Henry Ford, the creator, liked to listen to the fiddler play old American dance music. Yet, it may be true that his scions prefer be-bop to opera, which is a matter of taste.

THEN THERE is so much to which those who have the money can contribute apart from putting on a television show for adults and infants — shows which are not unlike those put on by advertising agencies.

Universities, in particular, are short of funds and some are even closing down some valuable courses because they lack the money to keep them going on adequately high levels.

Several of the most celebrated American universities have been hit so down by the depreciation of our currency that they are withering away.

The better institutions of the American people have, for three centuries on this continent, been financed out of the private generosity of the American people rather than by the statutes of government.

It has been a characteristic of our people to give freely to learning, to the arts, for the advancement of medicine, and to many other good causes. Such institutions have enjoyed freedom of purpose and action because they have not been bound to the fiat of government.

TAXES, during the past 20 years, have been so high that it has become increasingly difficult for the private person to give large amounts.

The rich are being taxed out of existence. Men whose gross earnings are $100,000 a year — the big givers — no longer net enough, on account of high taxes, to be able to give much.

Many important institutions find themselves in financial difficulties, and as no tax relief is in sight in the United States, although Great Britain and Canada have been able to make tax cuts, the last hope are the Foundations.

So, the question must arise: Are the Foundations using their money in the public interest or have they become an instrument for tax evasion?

A committee of Congress moved into this question, but its chairman, Eugene Cox, became ill and died. The investigation petered out. It should be resumed in able hands so that we may have the advantage of the truth.

One-Man Third Party Role Suits Sen. Morse Fine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maybe the two-party system in the Senate is a thing of the past. The new third party—consisting of one man, Wayne Morse of Oregon—is seething with activity. And in the light of Morse's vocal accomplishments you can be dead sure this party is going to be heard from.

Morse planned to take the floor today, in fact, for another of his weekly "Committee Reports of the Independent Party," and he promised in advance he would speak "at some length."

Coming from the man who recently broke all Senate records with a 22 hour and 26 minute blockbuster against the offshore oil lands bill, this is not a promise to be taken lightly.

Morse gave the Senate a preview of today's address in a sort of warmup last Tuesday. Nobody held a stop watch on him, but his remarks added up to 34 columns in the Congressional Record, or about 20,000 words.

The Oregon senator was elected as a Republican but broke away from the GOP last year to support Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson in the presidential election. He didn't join the Democrats, though, but declared himself an independent and, as such, a third party in the Senate.

Public Meeting on Topic Scheduled June 1

Group Proposes Marion Adopt City Charter

By CHARLES L. MARTIN

First public move toward a possible change in the form of city government in Marion was taken today.

Announcement of a public meeting to discuss whether or not a city charter should be drafted was made by J. E. Oliphant in letters mailed to 1,000 persons in the city.

He is chairman of an 11-man committee which has planned the public meeting for 8 p.m., June 1 at the Silver Street School.

Guest speaker will be Professor Harvey Walker of the Ohio State University. He will explain the procedure necessary for adopting a city charter along with an explanation of the "home rule" amendment to the Ohio Constitution in 1912, and the city manager form of government.

In explaining the reason for the public meeting, Oliphant said it is the result of a study of the city manager form of municipal government made two years ago by a committee of the Chamber of Commerce committee.

Following recommendations made in the C of C committee report, the 11-man "Temporary Home Rule Charter Committee" was appointed.

The calling of the public meeting June 1 is the first public step taken by this committee.

Next Step

The letter pointed out that the procedure for the next step toward adoption of a city charter will be the election of a permanent "Home Rule Charter Committee." This election is to be held at the meeting June 1.

Job of the permanent committee will be to select a list of 15 nominees from among Marion residents for election next November to a "Charter Commission." This commission will draft a city charter and bring it before the voters within one year for their approval or rejection.

Oliphant said that while the permanent committee will only list 15 candidates to the commission other groups such as the Republican or Democratic parties, labor groups such as the Republican or Democratic parties, labor groups and the like may also place candidates on the ballot.

While all these candidates would be listed on the November ballot next fall, none would be declared elected unless the voters cast a majority "yes" vote to the question "Shall a commission be elected to frame a city charter."

The ballot would contain no nominees would be elected at large from the city strictly on a non-partisan basis.

Purpose of the charter, Oliphant said, would be to set up a form of city government which would be "the best and most efficient" for Marion.

This could be any form devised by the charter commission but likely would be one of four most popular forms in the U. S. These are the so-called "weak mayor-council" form, the commission, the federal or "strong mayor-council," and city manager forms.

Present Form

Presently Marion has the "weak mayor-council" form of city government. This is the same form under which the city operated in 1912 when the home rule amendment was passed.

Actually the city enjoys many of the benefits of "home rule" although it has never adopted a city charter. Examples of some of these benefits are such things as setting the rate of pay for city employees, determining the method of garbage collection and the fee to be charged for this service, operation of the fire department and similar such government functions on the local level.

Home rule is defined in the 1912 amendment as follows:

"Municipalities shall have authority to exercise all powers of local self-government and to adopt and enforce within their limits such local police, sanitary and other similar regulations, as are not in conflict with general laws."

A section of the Ohio General Code says that a city with a charter may follow the procedure set up in the charter for the passage and publication of legislation, the making of improvements, and the levying of assessments. Without a charter the city must follow the procedure in these matters as set up in the General Code.

Under a charter also, a city may, if the voters deem it necessary, raise real estate taxes beyond the 10-mill limitation set forth in the General Code.

Under the present form of city government in Marion the levying of these taxes, the making of assessments, making improvements and other similar acts of the city administration must follow the procedures set forth in the General Code.

List Disadvantage

Disadvantage to this, according to Oliphant, is that the procedures set up in the General Code are in many cases not efficient for Marion although they may be for some other cities.

Also, as long as the city continues without a charter, it must remain on the weak mayor-council form of municipal government and actions of the city in many areas of local government will continue to be regulated by the state legislature, he said.

While the temporary charter committee has not taken a stand favoring one form of government as opposed to the others, the Chamber of Commerce committees recommended the city manager form in a report dated Jan. 7, 1952.

Another provision in the General Code controlling the procedure of adopting a city charter provides that once passed by the voters, the charter may not affect the terms of elected city officials serving an unexpired term at the time the charter is adopted.

As an example of this, if the mayor were serving in the second year of a two year term at the time a charter calling for the abolishment of the office of mayor were passed, the incumbent would continue in office until the end of his term.

This would be true also for any other city executive or legislative offices which might be abolished, combined or changed in any way by the charter.

Smaller Council Suggested

Oliphant explained also that under present plans the legislative control of city government in Marion under a charter would remain in a city council. One suggestion is that council be composed of six men elected from the various wards.

Advantage of a smaller council, Oliphant said, is that it would promote more efficiency and greater cooperation between the Council and the administrative head of the city government.

Oliphant said the city manager form of government may be likened to a large corporation. The city manager is similar to the president of the company and is controlled by the board of directors or the City Council, he said. Whether or not the city ultimately adopts the city manager form of government, the adoption of a city charter would provide for the establishment of a type of government most appropriate for Marion's needs, the letter mailed by the temporary committee said.

It also noted that some cities have retained their present basic form of government, but have profited by the advantages of a home rule charter. This apparently referred to the authority of cities with such charters to raise or lower tax limitations, combine, abolish or establish new city offices and undertake other similar local government activities.

More detailed discussions of the home rule charter, various forms of government possible under such a charter, and advantages and disadvantages of the various forms will be held at the public meeting June 1, Oliphant said.

Other members of the temporary committee are Harry L. Dowler, Perry Bachelder, Ralph Howard, Marshall Browne, Larry Rainier, Robert Kelly, Ellis Oiler, Louis Conkle, Ray Beverly, and Robert T. Mason.

GREEN CAMP—More than 300 people were present for senior commencement exercises Wednesday night in the new all-purpose room of the Green Camp School.

The address was by Earl C. Metz, head of the department of education, Capital University, Columbus. His subject was "Higher" and it tied in with the class motto of "Less Than Our Best Is Failure." Six points were described by Mr. Metz. They were "humility, ideals, gameness, honor, education, religion."

The school band, directed by Miss Lenore Rice, opened the program playing "Pomp and Circumstance." The Rev. A. H. Nothstine, Baptist pastor, gave the invocation. John Kennard played a trumpet solo and Stanley Seiter sang. Norma Cleland and Madelyn Willey presented a piano duet.

Charlotte Klein was this year's salutatorian and Donna Converse, valedictorian.

Supt. N. C. Roettger presented the class and diplomas were distributed by Carl G. Seiter, president of the Board of Education.

The 17 graduates were: Norma Cleland, Donna Converse, Charlotte Klein, Wanda Rader, Madelyn Willey, Kenneth Bish, David Deeds, John Kennard, Donald Schertzer, Gene Marsh, Gary Murray, James Pfeiffer, Richard Porter, Fred Roth, Stanley Seiter, Paul Sheppard and Larry Wells.

The Rev. Eugene T. Henzel of the Evangelical and Reformed Church pronounced the benediction.

TV Programs From Cuba Picked Up

Television programs from Havana, Cuba, on Channel 2, have been picked up in this vicinity recently.

Wednesday, residents in the east central part of Delaware County, between Sunbury and Delaware, and also around the Ashley community, brought in the station several days earlier, the station was received in the Bucyrus vicinity, according to reports.

The program Wednesday was reported to be coming in very clearly, in Spanish, with some type of vaudeville show in progress.

Television repairmen have said that such things happen when there is a heavy blanket of clouds and fog overhead, resulting in what the trade calls a "temperature inversion." This was explained as a combination of hot and cold temperatures which cause the TV waves to bounce off the clouds in peculiar angles.

Leroy Edward Carter, a Galion, O., sailor, Thursday told Municipal Judge Mahlon R. Stewart he bought a bear cub from a man in a tavern. Carter said the bear bit him so he bit the bear back.

Judge Stewart fined Carter $10 for disorderly conduct and police turned the bear over to a farmer.

BELLEFONTAINE, O. (AP)—Two-

Asphalt Interests File Brief on Ohio Turnpike Paving

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Asphalt interests today gave the Ohio Supreme Court their version of the controversy over how the state's 241-mile turnpike should be paved.

In a brief filed with the high court, Richard H. Shafer, president of the Ohio Road Improvement Co. and asphalt interests spokesman, asked that the decision of the Second District Court of Appeals be upheld.

The Appeals Court found the Ohio Turnpike Commission failed to exercise proper discretion in its decision to accept bids on only one kind of paving — Portland cement. It ordered the commission to draw up new plans and reopen bids to both Portland cement and asphaltic concrete.

The commission appealed to the high court, which will hold a hearing on the case Wednesday.

Asphalt interests contended, and were supported by the findings of the Appeals Court referee, that the commission could not legally select a particular kind of paving material in advance of bidding. In his brief filed today, Shafer contended that even if the commission had the legal right to make an advance selection, it failed to exercise real discretion.

The World Today

Churchill Shifts Stand

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill's sudden proposal that the big Western leaders, presumably Churchill and President Eisenhower, talk with Russian leaders apparently was made without consulting Eisenhower.

The proposal was not only of major importance. It represented a change in Churchill's position.

That he could make this move, so far as is known, without telling this country doesn't speak well for the closeness of the relationship between the Eisenhower administration and the Churchill government in Britain.

But the fact that it happened in the way it did is proof that the Russians under Malenkov by a simple shift in tactics—from talking tough to talking nice—accomplished something Stalin didn't in years of being nasty.

They have been able to drive a wedge, no matter how small, between the Western Allies.

Churchill well knew Eisenhower's position on Russian talk of peace, which begun after Stalin's death, since the President had previously stated it publicly:

That he'd be glad to sit down with the Russians to work out peace, provided they first showed by something more positive than words that they were sincere in wanting peace.

At his news conference yesterday Eisenhower said he had not yet seen any evidence of Russia's good faith.

Churchill himself, in his proposal this week, didn't attempt to point to Russian deeds as evidence of good intentions. Rather, he said recent friendly gestures from the Kremlin had impressed him.

In fact, he said he was far more impressed by developments inside Russia since Stalin's death than by what had been happening outside.

So the basic difference between Churchill and Eisenhower on this latest twist in Russian tactics seems to be that Churchill is willing to accept peace talk as peaceful intentions while Eisenhower wants some proof.

Churchill's present position is a shift for him, too. Before the British elections in 1951 he promised, if he became Prime Minister, that he would seek a talk and understanding with the Russian leaders.

But, once in office, he backed away from the idea. His British Laborite opposition repeatedly challenged him to carry out his promise but he said the time was not right.

As if in explanation of his own shift, Churchill this week said the "supreme" event of the last few months was the change of attitude and, he hoped, a change in mood that had taken place in the Kremlin.

Churchill certainly knew that his proposal contained some seeds of danger for Allied harmony, that he might cause America's friends to distrust its intentions and doubt its leadership.

Why did he take this step? A number of reasons spring to mind, any of which might be the right one:

His desire to crown his great career by taking the lead in efforts to make a world peace settlement; self-consciousness about not having carried out his campaign promise; a desire to show that while Britain might be second-fiddle to the U. S., is was still a world power capable of leadership of its own; perhaps a feeling that Eisenhower was being too much influenced by isolationist forces in this country.

Clement Attlee, leader of the Laborites, praised Churchill's proposal in a speech of his own one day later and said he thought Eisenhower was a captive of forces in this country which wanted no settlement with Russia.

Attlee was critical of this country and, in being so, may have proved himself short-sighted. He was denounced in Congress. The time may come when he will again be Britains Prime Minister and have to depend on the U. S. Congress for help.

Congressman Irked at Failure To Cut Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The country "may need another election" to get a tax cut and a balanced budget, says Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich).

The 77-year-old congressional veteran told his constituents in a news letter not to blame him if taxes are not reduced and spending not balanced with income. He said he had no "particular influence with the administration."

"Perhaps all the people got last November was a change in personnel, not policy," he said and rapped the foreign spending policies of the Eisenhower administration.

Referring to Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey's suggestion to raise the 275 billion dollar limitation on the national debt. Hoffman said:

"That is not the answer. The answer is to quit meddling in the affairs of other peoples and other nations, quit taxing our people to help them."

"High-Water Deputies"

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP)—This city's 2,099 "high water deputies" traded their badges for ice cream cones this week.

In March, the youngsters pledged that they would stay away from swollen streams. The ice cream, contributed by business firms, was their reward.

Bible Words to Live by

If I have a favorite passage out of the many greatly loved scriptures, to which I turn more frequently than any other, it would be:

ROMANS 12:1-2—"I appeal to you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, to present your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy and acceptable to God, which is your spiritual worship. Do not be conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewal of your mind, that you may prove what is the will of God, what is good and acceptable and perfect."

* * *

This passage pinpoints for me the necessity of living one's religion. It also encourages one to recognize that by a constant turning of one's mind to an understanding of the will of God, a new vitality of religious life and understanding can be achieved. The passage is one of challenge, of action and of hope.

Commissioners Reject Request For New Road

A petition by Dennis L. Trachsel requesting a road or outlet through the land of others, was dismissed Thursday morning by the Marion County Commissioners, who held that the road or outlet was not necessary.

Trachsel said he will appeal the dismissal.

The petition, filed with the commissioners on March 20, requested the commissioners to authorize a county road as an extension of Indiana Ave. to the east. Trachsel, president of the General contracting Company, wants the road as an inlet to land on which he is planning a housing development.

A private road now leads east from Indiana Ave. to The Woods addition. Residents of this area objected to Trachsel's request.

Thursday morning's hearing in the commissioners' office was a continuation of the hearing held April 23. The meeting at that time was continued until Trachsel could file his road plans with the Marion Planning Commission. Trachsel reported the commission had approved his layout.

Angry Woman Frees 300 Dogs From Pound

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., (AP) — A woman vexed because the dogcatcher impounded her dog freed more than 300 from the city pound yesterday.

Police Chief R. D. Allen said two or three animals that may be infected with rabies were among the dogs the unidentified woman turned loose.

Late last night, only 125 dogs had been returned to the pound by annoyed police and dogcatchers.

Marciano, Walcott Set; Champion Remains 3-1 Favorite

Interest in Fight Low; Receipts May Disappoint

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—Undefeated Rocky Marciano, the youthful slugger, defends his heavyweight title against ex-champion Jersey Joe Walcott, the ancient boxer, in a long-awaited 15-round rematch at the Chicago Stadium tonight.

The two fighters, held at bay since a nose injury to Marciano postponed an original April 10 meeting, were to weigh in at 12 noon (EST) for their nationally-televised bout at 9 p. m.

Despite their classic first encounter at Philadelphia last Sept. 23 when a trailing Marciano dethroned Walcott with a pulverizing 13th round knockout, the assault on the box-office has been disappointingly light.

Attendance in the 20,000-seat Stadium may range between 13,000 and 15,000 and the gate—even with more than 9,000 "ringside" seats selling at $50 each—needed a last-minute spurt to hit $450,000.

The TV (NBC) factor—with only video screens in the Chicago and Milwaukee areas blacked out—and both local and national broadcasting (ABC) unquestionably squelched the ticket sale.

The fact the fight has been so long in the making has spun cobwebs around such pertinent facts as:

1. The 28-year-old Marciano is seeking his 44th pro victory without defeat in his first title defense.

2. The 39-year-old Walcott, in his eighth title appearance, is trying to become the first man ever to recapture the heavyweight crown.

3. Even though Marciano is a strong 3 to 1 favorite, the rugged Brockton Bomber was far behind on points and dumped for the first time in his career before his tremendous right to Walcott's jaw ended the last party.

That ponderous smash to the jaw has been described as one of the greatest blows in boxing history, ending as it did perhaps the most savage heavyweight title bout since the memorable Dempsey-Firpo battle.

It is recollection of that punch that gives Marciano almost unanimous support of boxing writers to repeat by a knockout, although active ringmen believe generally that Walcott can box Marciano into defeat.

The sponsoring International Boxing Club was hopeful, but not overly optimistic that gross receipts would top the indoor gate record of $422,918 set at the Stadium July 18, 1947, when Rocky Graziano knocked out Tony Zale for the middleweight title.

Walcott has forfeited his right to a 30 per cent slice of the net gate and TV receipts of $300,000 for a flat $250,000 guarantee. But with the sag in ticket sales, the former champion is expected to fare better than Marciano whose 30 per cent hunk may approximate $200,000.

The experts, almost to a man, think Jersey Joe's aging legs cannot carry him 15 rounds which they feel must be done to beat Marciano. Yet it was only last June that Walcott went that route in his first title defense for a decision over Charles.

One thing Walcott is certain to try, with all his skill as a left-hand jabber, is to test how well Marciano's nose has mended. Rocky's profuse bleeding in his right nostril from two ruptured blood vessels caused the postponement from April 10.

A referee and two judges, to be named at fight time, will score the bout under Illinois rules which provide for a 10-point per round system. An even round is 5-5 and the margin for a winner varies from 6-4 to 8-2. Total points determine the winner in a bout which goes the limit.

DAYTON, O. (AP)—Leland (Junior) Norris, former University of Dayton basketball star, is the new basketball coach at suburban Fairmont High School. He succeeds Vince Arnold, who will remain as athletic director.

SHORT SPORTS

By John Short

Last winter when the Professional Golfers' Association passed a rule, banning women golfers from wearing shorts during tournament competition, we were asked what we thought of the rule.

At the time, we thought it was a little silly and a lot of trouble to waste time on such an unimportant matter. After making our first visit of the season to the links, we're even more convinced.

SHORT

Last week, way back when the sun was shining, we completed our first nine. We just happened to be on the course at the same time a sweet young thing was teeing off. She was clad in a sunsuit-sort of outfit, shorts and blouse. Watching her didn't bother our game the least bit. We simply waited while she holed out and then proceeded.

After she left, we finished our nine holes and hit our usual 54.

MAN WANTED. The Fish Management Section of the Ohio Division of Wildlife is looking for a fisherman with the name Pat or the initials PAT, who apparently lives at or near Indian Lake.

The man, or woman, is needed to furnish information on a fish tag pulled from the lake recently. A fisherman landed a five-pound catfish and found the tag bearing the letters TE-WFKA on one side and the PAT on the other side.

The tag was turned into the fish management section and no record was found on it. The section has become interested in learning the history of the tag and fish.

RICHWOOD—Final touches are being readied for the Grand Opening of the new Richwood Speedway tonight. The NARC stock car races begin weekly races under the lights on the new quarter-mile oval at the Richwood Fairgrounds.

Two-time feature winner at Indian Valley Speedway, Joe Jones of Galion, where the stocks run every Sunday afternoon, has filed entry along with Richwood's Jim Reece and Ed Douglas, plus many others from Prospect, Ostrander, Delaware, Columbus and Marysville.

Tonight's inaugural program opens with time trials at 7 and the first of seven races at 8:30. There will be a 25-lap feature.

Selkirk Succeeds Holmes at Toledo

TOLEDO, O. (AP)—Former New York Yankee star George Selkirk is the new manager of the Toledo Sox. The American Association club hired him Thursday immediately after firing Tommy Holmes.

Selkirk, whose duties start as Toledo meets the Millers Saturday night in Minneapolis, managed a Yankee farm club, the Kansas City Blues, in 1951 and 1952.

Toledo, considered earlier in the season as a hot contender for the Association title, is in last place with a 9-16 record. Richard (Red) Smith, Toledo General manager, said the Sox brass "agreed a change in managers would serve the best interests of the club at this time."

PONY BOY. Members of the Baseball for Boys Commission are encountering a little trouble in rounding out the newly-formed Pony League. Three team sponsors have been signed but several firms have balked and the fourth is still to be found.

Commissioners say they find the attitude a little hard to understand. The sponsoring price has been lowered and still the fourth sponsor is needed. The commission members report they find sponsors from last year flatly refusing to give up their teams. They feel it is one of the best investments they have made in years.

Harding Tracksters Prep For District Meet

Harding's track team takes part in the Central District meet at Delaware Saturday with 13 other schools shooting for spots in the state meet.

Coach Ken Somerlot's harriers finished second in the district last year and went on to cop third in the state.

A squad of 23 Prexies will be fighting for berths in the state meet. The top three finishers in each event will qualify for the state meet.

One of Harding's chief hopes is Jack Boxwell, its discus man. Boxwell won his speciality in the Mansfield Relays this year with a toss of 135 feet, 3 inches, and has been tossing the platter close to that mark all year.

Harding will depend on Frank Green, Gary Ballinger and Doug Bibler in the broad jump. All have hit over 20 feet consistently this year.

In the pole vault, Harding will pin its hopes on Jack Craft, Ronnie Reed, Hugh Kinnamon and Max Kaelber. The trackmen have scored for Harding in the event all year, with Craft hitting 11-4 in the Marion Night Relays for his best performance of the season.

The locals will have Green and Jim Zeigler in the high jump. Both have hit the 5-5 mark consistently throughout the season. Ballinger and Chet King, 10-second runners, will attempt to qualify in the 100 yard dash.

Fred Price, who has been touring the mile run in under five minutes the last several times out, will be Harding's hope in the 880 Burtch will make up the Harding 880-yard relay team and Saiter again along with Green, Clinger and Andrews will comprise the mile relay squad.

Winners will receive medals and trophies from five Ohio Wesleyan University coeds picked by the university student Kiwanis Club, Circle K.

The locals Wednesday wound up their third straight undefeated dual meet season with a 97-21 win over Lima South. It marked Harding's 35th straight dual meet win.

VICTORY QUINT. Five Ohio Wesleyan University coeds will pass out medals and ribbons to the various winners at the district meet Saturday. Harding thinclads will be seeking to carry home a large share of these awards.

SUNDAY NITE "UNDER THE LIGHTS"

Two Balks Help Bosox Whip Indians

Piersall Drives In Winning Run In 11th Inning

BOSTON (AP)—Cleveland was fast gaining the embarrassing reputation today of being a tough ball team on second division clubs but soft for the American League's big guys.

In the entire young season, the Indians have won only once over first division teams and that was the 6-0 victory over the White Sox in the opener.

Thursday's 5-4, 11-inning Red Sox triumph was one of those games in which the Indians actually beat themselves.

The victory margin can be described in one word — balk. Bob Feller balked once by making an illegal move towards third and a run scored shortly afterwards.

Then, with the bases loaded in the eighth, relief pitcher Dave Hoskins interrupted his windup for another balk and that was another run. All last season the Indian pitching staff committed two balks.

Feller let Ted Lepcio homer for one run in the second, and Gene Stephens to score on a single, balk, a grounder and a fly for the second.

The score was 4-2 in the Indians' favor in the seventh, when Feller allowed Milt Bolling to single. Out went Feller and in went Hoskins.

Hoskins gave up that third run on his balk in the eighth, and Mike Garcia let Jim Piersall end the game in the 11th with a run-producing single.

The Indians did all their scoring with home runs, all off Hector (Skinny) Brown. Al Rosen, Joe Tipton and Jim Lemon each got one, Lemon's being good for two runs, the others hitting with the bases empty.

7 Veterans Help Shovel Girls' Team

Manager Elmer Smith of the Marion Power Shovel Co. will field a lineup including seven veteran performers Tuesday night when the Girls' Softball League swings into action. Five girls will be starting their third year on the team while two others are back from last season.

Back for a shot at another league crown will be Jennalee Ward, who will handle the catching, and Pitcher June Blackford along with Eileen Sherman, pitcher last season who may be moved to first base.

Other returning veterans include Gloria Cummins at second base, Jeanne Deweese at shortstop, Barbara Taylor, outfielder, and Barbara Wynn.

The team will open the campaign against the General Telephone team, which has been tabbed as one of the teams to beat. Neither Smith nor his assistant, Jim O'Brien, will make any predictions on the outcome of the race. Refusing to pick a pennant winner, O'Brien says "We'll just give our best."

While rain and wet grounds have held down practice sessions, Smith is looking for help from a lot of newcomers to the squad. Thus far, the manager is undecided where the girls will play but will spot them as the season moves along.

Among the newcomers are Beulah Cochran, Regina Cleveland, Peggy Bacon, Charlotte Bigford, Jean Mather, Millicent Williams, Catherine Almendinger, Pat Jacobs, Mary Lee Dixon, Betty Hopkins and Mabel Wright.

Special "women only" trains are run to vacation resorts on British railways with one hour kept clear for shopping on each trip.

Jim Saiter and Zeigler in the 120-yard high hurdles and Bibler and Smith in the 180 low hurdles are the Harding threats. BETTER THAN BEER?

With an open bottle and an open mind you can answer that question tonight!

At Carling's we brew both beer and ale—and each is mighty popular. But more and more people are telling us Carling's Red Cap Ale gives them more pleasure than any beer they ever tasted. They say it's light and dry as the smoothest beer, yet with that extra flavor—that "heart" which only a fine ale can provide. They call it the "light-hearted" ale.

Tonight, why not try it yourself? See whether you are one of those who find Carling's Red Cap Ale tastes even better than beer!

Yankees Bow, 7-5

White Sox in Role of Giant Killer, Nip League Leaders for Third Time

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sportswriter

Word that the rest of the league is supposed to drop dead at the sight of a Yankee uniform apparently has not yet reached the Chicago White Sox.

The New Yorkers wore the same outfits that regularly have been giving the other clubs the shakes, but the White Sox just kept coming back for more at Yankee Stadium yesterday and wound up with their third straight victory over the World Champions.

The score was 7-5 with the winning runs coming in the ninth inning on the type of finish the Yankees thought was their own private patent.

Chicago is the only club in the league with a winning margin over the champions, having won three of four starts. The Sox continue their visit with the Yankees today and tomorrow. With the kind of hitting and hustle they showed yesterday they could leave town in first place. At the moment the Yankees lead them by a game and a half.

The contrast between the White Sox and the Cleveland Indians, most experts' choice as the Yanks' most dangerous rival, was startling. The Indians showed almost nothing in two games in New York earlier in the week.

Yesterday, with ex - Yankee catcher Sherm Lollar showing the way, the White Sox fought back from a 4-1 deficit to lead 5-4, then rallied again after Don Bollweg had homered for New York to tie the score. Lollar lifted one into the seats with two on in the seventh and singled to start the ninth inning uprising. He also starred defensively, picking two men off second base and throwing out one would-be base thief.

While all this was going on, Cleveland was losing its fourth in a row, at Boston, 5-4, in 11 innings. In night games Washington won its sixth straight, 2-1, over St. Louis and Philadelphia nipped Detroit, 5-3.

Milwaukee pulled into a tie with the Philadelphia Phillies for the National League lead as cold wet weather in the Midwest continued to disrupt the schedule.

The Braves scored two runs in the ninth inning to edge the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3-2. The Phillies were forced into idleness by cold weather in Chicago.

The St. Louis Cardinals evened their season's record with the Brooklyn Dodgers by whipping them, 8-3, in the only other National League game. The New York Giants contest at Cincinnati was postponed because of rain.

Held to four hits by knuckleballer Johnny Lindell in the first eight innings, the Braves opened the ninth with Sid Gordon drawing a walk. Andy Pafko doubled with Gordon stopping at third and Lindell walked Joe Adcock on purpose. Then second baseman Jack Dittmer singled to bring home two runs. Pittsburgh scored twice in the fourth inning on a single by Paul Smith followed by a triple by Pete Castiglione and a long fly by Ralph Kiner. The Cardinals opened up early on the Dodgers, routing Carl Erskine who had beaten them eight straight times before he could get anybody out in the first inning. Red Schoendienst hit two home runs for the Red Birds.

In losing to Boston, Cleveland blew three early leads gained on home runs by Al Rosen in the second inning, Joe Tipton in the third and Jim Lemon in the fourth.

Boston tied the score for the last time with two runs in the eighth and won out in the 11th when Jim Piersall singled home Ted Lepcio with two down. Lepcio also homered for the Red Sox.

Washington's winning streak has moved the Senators up to the .500 mark and to within 4½ games of first place. Frank Shea won his second straight over the Browns after weathering a ninth inning rally.

The Tigers stumbled deeper into the cellar by losing to Harry Byrd, last year's rookie of the year in the American League.

Hand Injury May Cost Snead's Title

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP)—The $17,500 Meadow Brook round robin golf tournament swung into its 36-hole "iron man' phase today with Dave Douglas' irons and Sam Snead's right hand the chief items of concern.

Douglas, 35-year-old touring pro from Newark, Del., is off to a big first round lead in this mathematical links derby and, if he can continue his peerless iron play, there may be no overtaking him before Sunday's windup.

The man most people figured to win the top prize, defending champion Snead, has aggravated a nine-year-old hand injury and may prove to be not much of a factor.

The willowy Douglas shot a 66, a course competitive record, in the first round Thursday to pile up a point score of plus 18, fourteen better than his closest challengers, Lloyd Mangrum, Bobby Locke, Jimmy Demaret and Jim Ferrier,

Girls Baseball Game Called

The scheduled professional girls game between the Ft. Wayne Daisies and Kalamazoo Lassies, both members of the American Girls Baseball League, was cancelled Thursday night at Lincoln Park due to wet grounds and rain.

The two teams, on a 13-game exhibition tour, were scheduled for a pair of games this week at Saginaw, Mich., and left Marion today by their chartered bus. A spokesman for the Baseball for Boys Commission today said the commission would attempt to bring the teams back here later for a game.

Blues' Win Streak Ends at 10 Games

By The Associated Press

The Kansas City Blues' winning streak of 10 games was broken Thursday night but they maintained a substantial 2½ game lead on top of the American Association.

Earle Sande Sees Repeat In Preakness

Says Dark Star, Native Dancer Will Fight It Out Again

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Take it from Earle Sande, one time jockey great, the Preakness May 23 will be a repetition of the thrilling Kentucky Derby with Dark Star and "that big grey colt" fighting it out again in the $100,000 classic at Baltimore.

Sande speaks with the voice of experience when he talks of the "Big Grey" (Native Dancer) and Dark Star. Natuarlly, at the age of 55, he's not figuring on riding either of them, but it wasn't too many years ago that he piloted some of the nation's greatest thoroughbreds over the hallowed racing strips of Churchill Downs and Pimlico.

"I saw the Derby on television, but I didn't see Money Broker slam into Native Dancer as they say he did," Sande remarked as he watched the horses parade in the walking ring at Belmont Park.

"I thought Native Dancer ran a wonderful race, coming from way back to almost beat Dark Star. But, you can't take anything away from Dark Star, because he set all the pace and hung on with tremendous courage to win by a head."

Would the grey thatched Sande predict the Preakness outcome?

"Well, I'm crazy about that grey streak, but it should be a terrific horse race—just as it was in the derby."

Sande, who won the Derby with Zev in 1923, Flying Ebony in 1925, and who swept the Derby-Preakness-Belmont Triple Crown aboard Gallant Fox in 1930, had an invitation to attend this year's Derby.

"I couldn't have attended, and I can't go to Baltimore for the Preakness," he said, with a smile.

"I have a two-year-old filly here at Belmont, and I think she might be a pretty good one. Her name is Cygni. She hasn't raced yet, and she takes all my attention now."

Cygni is a daughter of Stymie, one-time top money winning horse of the world. Her mother is Likadream, by Stagehand, the latter trained by Sande to become the leading three-year-old of 1938.

Sande has had his ups and downs with illness and bad luck in recent years, but he's all smiles and confidence now as he chats with the Whitneys, Vanderbilts and others in the Belmont paddock.

"I've been getting some television and radio appearances, I've got a horse—I hope a good one—and I'm having a lot of fun."

CLEARED OF CHARGES

CANTON, O. (AP)—Three women members of the CIO United Steelworkers Union have been cleared of charges of mauling Mrs. Mary Sokolovich during a strike at Timken Roller Bearing Co. last August. Judge Adolph Unger dismissed charges against Mrs. Concetta G. Ceralo, and a municipal jury acquitted Mrs. Leona Norman and Mrs. Mildred Dexter. Mrs. Sokolovish, not a Timken employe, accused the three of assaulting her while she was running to catch a bus near the Timken plant.

Did You Know

An important collection of manuscripts of German composers from Johann Sebastian Bach to Richard Strauss, assembled in the course of generations by the music publishing house of Breitkopf and Haertel, has geen purchased by the Hessian state government and will remain in Germany. About a year and a half ago, the collection was in danger of being sold abroad due to temporary financial straits of the music company, but was kept intact in its own country through the intervention of the President of the German Federal Republic.

American visitors to the great "Ireland at Home" festival in 1953 will be entertained at historic castles which have been converted into hotels where one can live for as little as $36 a week.

$2,300 Worth Of China for Eden

LONDON (UP) — A 1,200-piece dinner set worth 825 pounds ($2,300) has been made for Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden so he can keep unbroken a tradition that is about 600 years old.

The service will be used June 5 when the newly crowned sovereign, Queen Elizabeth II, will be guest of honor at a state banquet given by the foreign secretary. About 150 high ranking personalities from overseas, including the senior member of the U.S. delegation to the coronation on June 2, will attend.

The complete service will be used this once only. Then it will be divided in half. One part will be sent to a British embassy abroad (Paris or Washington are strong probabilities.) The other half will be retained by the Foreign Office for formal entertaining at other times.

The service was made by Britain's most famous pottery works, Josiah Wedgewood Ltd. of Staffordshire. It is fine bone chine, and each piece is decorated with the royal coat of arms in 22-carat gold. The side plates are smaller than standard, but this isn't a new style note. With the smaller plates, it will be possible to squeeze in a few extra guests around the glittering table.

A new material for shoe uppers, developed by industrial research in the laboratories of a mid-west rubber company, is said to be water resistant to an extent that makes rubbers almost unnecessary.
